Tommies Pursue Fleeing Germans To Maas Shores

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — British troops chasing the Germans from southwestern Holland reached the Maas river today and speared within half a mile of the Geertruidenberg bridge, one of the main spans of the enemy's fog-shrouded escape over the river.

Two victorious allied armies harried the retreat as the battle of the Dutch coastal corner and the related Schelde estuary action reached the mop up stage. The German defeat means the allies soon will get the use of the great Belgian port of Antwerp for the flood of supplies to feed the coming drives into the heart of Germany.

A front dispatch said it was estimated that perhaps only 10,000 to 20,000 Germans had been left below the Maas river line to attempt to slow up the pursuit of the victorious Canadian first and British second armies. A British spokesman has said that the bulk of the enemy forces probably would escape across the water barrier.

Hold Counterblow

East of Eindhoven, the strongest German counterattack yet launched on the west front "made no headway," yesterday supreme headquarters announced, and failed to blunt the offensive north of Antwerp.

All of the Schelde island of south Beveland now is in the hands of British and Canadian troops, who are poised at the narrow causeway leading to the trapped enemy garrison on flooded Walcheren island. A few enemy guns remaining on Walcheren island bar the passage of allied ships from the long water approach to Antwerp.

Nazis in Pocket

West of Antwerp, the capture of Retranchement compressed the remnants of the Germans' old Schelde pocket garrison into a rapidly diminishing square of land on the North sea coast.

Below the Maas and its seaward outlet, the Hollandsch Diep, converging British and Polish columns sweeping up from Breda and Tilburg met in Oosterhout, drove forward the captured Raamsdonk, less than two miles from one of the main bridges over the Maas near Geertruidenberg.

Farther west, Roosendaal was abandoned yesterday by its German garrison, and tanks dashed beyond it to the vicinity of Oud' Gastel. North of Bergen Op Zoom, the Canadian forces neared Steenbergen.

The roads leading to the bridges and ferries over the Maas and the Hollandsch Diep were black for miles with columns of German transport.

No Nazi Rout

A spokesman at British second army headquarters, however, said there still was no sign of a German rout. It is an orderly withdrawal, he said, covered by extensive use of mines and booby traps, as well as elements of five or six enemy divisions acting as rearguards.

On the east flank of the allies' Holland salient American troops regained some of the ground taken by the German thrust in the Maas bulge, but the enemy was hanging on to the town of Liesel despite allied attempts to recapture it.

On American sectors of the western front, the French city of Maizieres-les-Metz, six miles north of Metz, was cleared after three weeks of bitter street fighting.

Farther south, the villages of Dru and Jeanmenil, approximately two miles east of Rambervillers, were captured.

Otherwise, there was little but patrol activity from Aachen to the Swiss border.

COLOGNE ROCKS UNDER RAF BLOW

LONDON, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—The RAF's biggest bombers, spearheading a night-raiding armada of more than 1,000 planes, crashed another 4,480 tons of explosives on burning Cologne at the rate of 100 tons a minute last night in an admitted attempt to obliterate Germany's fourth largest city.

More than 650 four-engined Halifaxes and Lancasters rocked doomed Cologne with bombs ranging up to four-ton super-block busters—inch capable of devastating a city block—while speedy twin-engined Mosquitoes carried out two diversionary attacks on Berlin, one before and one after the Cologne raid.

The shattering main attack—60 raids in 56 hours on Cologne—kindled huge fires which reddened the clouds over the city, next major objective of the American first army in western Germany. Smoke mushroomed to a great height overhead.

Night fighters and intruder aircraft supported the bombers with attacks on enemy night fighter airfields over a wide area and only two aircraft were lost in all operations. All Canadian bombers participating in the raids returned safely.

Cologne now has edged out Berlin as the most-bombed city in Germany, the air ministry said. More than 35,000 tons of bombs were believed to have been dropped on Cologne since the start of the war.

PINCER TIGHTENS AROUND BOLOGNA

ROME, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Indian troops of the eighth army crossed the Ronco river and established a bridgehead near Meldola today to bring the southern prong of an allied pincers around Forli to within six miles of the key point of the Bologna-Rimini highway.

A communique also disclosed that American troops of the fifth army, taking advantage of improving weather, inched out small gains in the southern drive toward Bologna and captured 100 enemy troops. The Americans were approximately eight miles from Bologna.

The crossing of the Ronco river by the Indians was the second by the eighth army. Other allied forces driving west along the highway from Rimini forced the river last week and entered the outskirts of Forli but were virtually halted by adverse weather and enemy resistance.

The Germans put up a fierce but brief battle against the Indians in a futile attempt to halt the eighth army forces which were converging on Forli, 37 miles east of Bologna.

In the western coastal sector, Brazilian troops of the fifth army battled through strong enemy machine gun fire to occupy a 2,500-foot mountain near the Serchio river, 14 miles east of Massa, and the village of Calomini, another half mile farther east.

Meantime it was revealed that the U. S. destroyer Plunket and the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc shelled enemy coastal batteries near the Franco-Italian border last Friday. The Plunket together with another U. S. destroyer Gleaves and the French cruiser Emile Bertin bombarded the same area on Saturday.

Multiple Blows Paralyzed Japs

WITH THE 24TH DIVISION, Leyte, Oct. 30 (Delayed) (AP)—This division jumped so fast in so many directions in the drive across Leyte that it paralyzed Japanese communications and intelligence with ad results for 30 enemy mechanics who returned to Pastrana yesterday.

The mechanics drove into the village which the Americans had captured two days previously. Twenty-nine were killed and the other captured.

The captive explained the group had been sent back to repair 20 trucks. The Americans had already completed the job and were using the vehicles against their former owners.

FLASHES of LIFE

ALLERGY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31 — Mrs. John Willis cleaned house. Next morning, she awoke with her face so swollen her eyes were almost shut. Doctors ran 65 allergy tests of all types of pollen. No luck.

Next week-end she cleaned house again. Again the swollen face.

The doctors switched tactics and tried once more. This time they found Mrs. Willis' trouble.

She's allergic to furniture polish.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 31 — A state prison inmate, in and out of Utah jails for a decade, is out again. He hid in a garbage can.

CONTEMPT

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 31 — Judge Karl V. King held City Judge Joseph G. Jeppson in contempt of court when he failed to appear on schedule because he was deer hunting. The sentence: Serve venison pies to the 66 who came to the judgless court.

Judge King has agreed to serve the game he brought back. But he isn't sure the diners will like it. He points out he shot a deer all right, but—

He also bagged a coyote.

CHURCHILL HINTS AT LONGER WAR

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill cautioned commons today that the war against Germany might last into next summer and that against Japan until the end of 1946.

He made these predictions, emphasizing they were subject to changing conditions, in calling for the retention of Britain's nine-year parliament and warborn coalition government, without an election.

"The coalition of parties ought not to be broken before nazism is broken," he said.

Churchill held out hope that "political convulsion in Germany may bring the war to a speedy end at any time."

Can't Predict

But, in almost the same breath, he warned that against that possibility "must be set the iron control of German life in all its forms, including the army which has been established by Hitler's storm troops and secret police."

"This," said Churchill flatly, "exceeds anything previously known among men.

"I certainly could not predict—still less guarantee—the end of the German war before the end of the spring or even before we reach early summer. It may come earlier, and no one will rejoice more than I if it should."

At another point, he asserted:

"On military grounds alone it would not be prudent to assume that a shorter period than 18 months after the destruction of Hitler will be required for the final destruction of the Japanese will and capacity to fight."

Would Be "Disaster"

As he called the measure to the floor, the prime minister said that various parties in the coalition government would be holding conferences before Christmas and, "while one cannot forecast what will occur, the possibility that a desire for return to the party system will be strongly expressed cannot be excluded."

Bluntly he told commons that "I have no hesitation in declaring that it would be a wrongful act, unworthy of our country's fame to break up the present governing instrument before we know where we are with Hitler's Germany."

"Those who force such a disaster," he said, "would take upon themselves immense responsibility and their action would be fiercely resented by the nation at large."

Nazis Admit Red Gains in Prussia

LONDON, Oct. 31 (U.P.) — Nazi broadcasts said today that the red army opened a new offensive all along the Narew river front below East Prussia and broke through the German lines at two points.

Berlin also reported that Soviet pressure had "increased considerably" in the Liepaja (Libau) sector above East Prussia as the Russians battled to clean up the wings of German resistance before the Junkers province.

Dense, deep-laid fortifications and desperate German opposition had stalled the frontal onslaught against East Prussia, and the Soviet command now appeared to be jockeying for positions from which to launch a massive nutcracker assault from the south and northeast in conjunction with the westward push toward Insterburg.

FLIER, 28, KILLED; DAD OF 5 MISSING

With only one cheerful note to their day's casualty reports, Magic Valley families have learned that another of its fliers was killed in action and four more of its soldiers are missing—one of them the father of five children. Two additional Magic Valley men have been wounded and one missing airman is now reported a prisoner of war in Germany.

The flier killed is Lieut. Jule R. Peacock, 28, Burley. The missing father of five is Pfc. Jack C. Gray, former Eden farmer whose family now lives in Twin Falls. The airman who is now a prisoner is First Lieut. Dean H. Sanner, Buhl. Missing are Flight Officer Kenneth Nefzger, Twin Falls; Pvt. Joseph Tvle, Bellevue, and Pvt. Paul Mullen, Jerome.

LIEUTENANT KILLED

BURLEY, Oct. 31—Lieut. Jule R. Peacock, 28, who was reported as missing in action on April 25 over Greece, is now listed as killed in action, according to war department word received here today.

The word came to the lieutenant's wife, Mrs. Audrey Park Peacock, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Peacock, all Burley residents.

"The members of his family received word last May which at that time listed him as missing. He was a bombardier-navigator on a Liberator based in Italy. He had been overseas since Dec. 1943.

A graduate of the University of Idaho, he held a degree of bachelor of science in accounting. He graduated in 1939. He was associated with his father in the Peacock Accounting firm of Burley until he entered the service. He was commissioned and received his wings at San Marcos, Tex., on June 3, 1943. In September of that same year he brought his wife to Burley and he was then stationed at Gowen field, Boise, for final training. He had a brief 24-hour leave in Burley on Oct. 28, 1943 before going overseas.

MISSING IN FRANCE

Father of five boys, Pfc. Jack C. Gray, has been missing in infantry action in France since Oct. 12, his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Gray, was informed here yesterday.

A volunteer, Private Gray entered service in January and embarked in July, following a furlough spent here. In a letter to his wife dated Oct. 7, he wrote that he had seen considerable action but had "pulled through, so far."

Private Gray had farmed at Eden prior to his entering service. His wife and their children, the youngest of whom are one and one-half years old, ...

Navy Bombardier Sinks 2 Nip Submarines With One Bomb

WITH U. S. THIRD FLEET CARRIER FORCE, Oct. 30 (U.P.)—A new mark in naval aviation has been chalked up by Ens. Raymond G. Baldwin, 26, Devon, Conn., who dropped a single bomb from his fighter plane and sank two Japanese submarines in the recent strike against the Ryukyus.

Baldwin's feat was accomplished during the raid by Adm. William F. Halsey's fast carrier forces against Okinawa Shima, 200 miles south of the main Japanese island of Kyushu.

Baldwin and three other fighter pilots were cruising over the north-west part of the island when they spotted four Jap submarines anchored in pairs about 100 feet apart. Lieut. Rudy Gmitro, 26, Minneapolis, a former University of Minnesota football star, made the first bombing run. The Jap sub crews opened fire but soon scattered when the diving Hellcats began strafing.

A bomb from Gmitro's plane landed about 30 feet from one sub, covering the vessel with sheets of water.

With the target obscured by the water, Baldwin decided to hold his bomb and make a second run.

"The second time around the bomb dropped perfectly, exploding amidships between two of the pigboats," said Baldwin, a former toolmaker for the Remington Arms plant at Bridgeport, Conn.

"The explosion blew out the sides of both subs and caused what was left to sink immediately. I was more surprised than thrilled."

GERMANS REPORT NEW RED LUNGE

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Swarms of red army tanks, planes and artillery are attacking across the Tisza river on a broad front 50 miles from Budapest in a new major offensive against the imperiled Hungarian capital, the nazis announced last night.

Russian troops broke into Kecskemet, fourth largest Hungarian city 50 miles southeast of Budapest, but then were driven out, the Berlin radio said.

"The battle between the Danube and lower Tisza rivers is nearing a climax," the official German news agency DNB said. "Although superior enemy forces have succeeded in squeezing back Hungarian lines, they were nowhere able to tear up the front."

Claim Counter-Attack

The Germans asserted that nine Russian and three Romanian infantry divisions, a motorized corps and several tank brigades were attacking—perhaps upwards of 225,000 men.

The enemy said, Russians who broke into Kecskemet were expelled in a counter-attack in which 25 tanks were disabled and that strong German tank forces struck the Russian right flank. Kecskemet is a straggling city of 83,000 in the center of a great agricultural region. It lies virtually in the center of Hungary and 20-odd miles west of the Tisza river, last water barrier before Budapest.

Soviets Silent

The Soviet communique did not mention the drive, but the Moscow radio broadcast a Geneva report that the pro-nazi Hungarian Premier, Ferenc Szalasi, had hurried to Adolf Hitler's headquarters "to present a plan to remove the seat of the Hungarian government from imperilled Budapest to Berlin."

Thousands of civilians were reported erecting breastworks outside Budapest.

The Russian communique was silent on the red army offensive in western Latvia, where fresh Soviet gains were reported by Berlin. The only reference to activities on the East Prussian front was a statement that hundreds of Germans were killed in the smashing of two nazi counter-attacks.

This Is Better: Bing Gets Limit

Bing Crosby did a little better in the pheasant hunting sport yesterday.

This morning, with a smile, he admitted to a reporter that he "got the limit." In Idaho that's three birds.

Sunday, the first day he hunted this season, his score was zero and he didn't even fire his gun.

The Crosby party expects to leave here this evening for Nevada and Hollywood.

New American Hits At Jap Naval Power Send Nip Toll to 64

By FRANK TREMAINE

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—New American air blows in the Philippines boosted the toll of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in nine days of the second battle of the Philippines to between 62 and 64 today and fleet sources put enemy casualties in the disastrous naval defeat at 25,000 to 35,000 men.

A Pacific fleet communique disclosed that carrier planes from Adm. William F. Halsey's victorious third fleet had added four to six ships and 90 enemy planes to the toll with forays in the Manila, southern Luzon and Cebu areas of the Philippines Saturday and Sunday.

At least three cruisers were hit, one probably sinking. An oil tanker also was hit at Manila, while other planes blasted three enemy coastal cargo vessels to the bottom near Cebu.

Cruiser Damaged

The cruiser believed sunk had been damaged previously, presumably during one of the three Japanese sea battles in the central Philippines last week, and had sought refuge at Manila.

One of the other two cruisers, which either escaped unscathed from or did not participate in the earlier engagements, was hit by two 1,000-pound bombs off the Cavite naval base and damaged severely. The tanker also was damaged by a 1,000-pound bomb.

(Radio Tokyo said a special Japanese assault force had sunk three aircraft carriers, a battleship and a small aircraft carrier or cruiser in the Leyte gulf yesterday "by crashing into their objectives." Another large aircraft carrier was sunk by bombs, the broadcast said.)

Jap Claims

(An earlier Tokyo communique had claimed that "the Kamikaze special attack corps" had accounted for 19 ships since Oct. 25, sinking three American aircraft carriers, a cruiser and a transport and damaging six aircraft carriers, two battleships, two cruisers, a transport and [illegible] and raised the toll of Japanese shipping four.

27 ships sunk—two battleships, four carriers, six heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, three small cruisers or large destroyers, six destroyers and three coastal cargo vessels.

Russia Balks Air Meeting, Absence Felt

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Russia's refusal to participate was the chief topic under discussion among the early arrivals gathered here today for the opening of the international civil aviation conference tomorrow.

Representatives of more than 50 united, associated and neutral countries will participate in the convention to draft the aviation pact of the peace settlement of World war II. The conference will begin with a welcoming address by Adolf Berle, jr., assistant secretary of state and chairman of the American delegation who will act as temporary president.

A delegate of one European neutral not "blacklisted" by Russia said frankly he thought the conference would be vitally affected by the absence of one of the big four on whose cooperation rests the lion's share in formulating the peace settlement.

GOVERNOR DEWEY ON AIR TONIGHT

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—A postwar jobs program he hopes will be more inviting to the voters than the proposals made by President Roosevelt in his Chicago speech Saturday night was outlined today by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for a major campaign address in Buffalo tonight.

The Republican presidential nominee planned to leave Albany shortly after noon for western New York [illegible] ... Boston, southward to Baltimore Thursday and into Pennsylvania that afternoon before returning to Albany Friday morning.

Paul Lockwood, the governor's secretary, announced that in his Buffalo speech, to be broadcast (NBC) from 7 to 7:30 p. m., MWT, tonight, Dewey would "state his specific, constructive program for the future of America, with special emphasis on small business and jobs."

"The governor will talk in Buffalo about unfilled promises which are no better for a fourth term than for a first term," Lockwood added.

Ah, Genial Draft Bosses Postpone Holiday Induction

If you're slated for November induction, and if you're a Democrat—or if whoever cooks your Thanksgiving day turkey is—then the state selective service officials have done you a favor. But if you're none of those things except slated for induction, you'll benefit anyway.

November quota of five men had been slated to leave here Nov. 23, day designated by President Roosevelt as Thanksgiving day this year. Kindly selective service officials Tuesday announced a one-day postponement of induction in order to let the boys attend the traditional feast.

But Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen and the Twin Falls city council have declared that Nov. 30 will be Thanksgiving day here. Anyway, you get an extra day's civilianship, so you should worry.

INFANTRY CUTS THROUGH LEYTE

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Oct. 31 (AP)—American infantrymen drove ahead through Leyte valley toward the island's northwest coast today coincident with an assertion by Gen. Douglas MacArthur that his grip on the Philippines will not be relaxed "until Bataan and Corregidor once more rise to life."

"Almighty God has blessed our arms," MacArthur said in his field dated general order number one, which praised the men who participated in the invasion for their "determination, fortitude and courage."

"The magnificent coordination displayed by the services," he said, "was as much as the special tactical efficiency of the various branches."

Show Tenacity

"The ground troops have shown a tenacity of purpose which has carried them unflinchingly through every ordeal. The tactical skill with which the troops have been maneuvered has not only outwitted the enemy but has resulted in a relatively low casualty rate that is unsurpassed in the history of war."

There were indications that American ground troops, battling a typhoon as well as desperate Japanese delaying tactics, were near a possible showdown with cornered but sizable nipponese forces.

Nip Lies Caused Jap Sea Blunder

ABOARD FLAGSHIP OF THIRD U. S. FLET IN PHILIPPINES SEA, Oct. 26 (Delayed)—(AP)—The fantastic reports of myopic Japanese aviators about what great damage they had already done to the American fleet may have seduced Japan's imperial fleet into the battle which finally cost it control of the western Pacific ocean.

This possibility was mentioned in an interview today by Rear Adm. Robert Carney, Washington, D. C., chief of staff to Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr.

Carney pointed out that the fantastic stories of damage to the American fleet off Formosa may not have been entirely the creations of the Tokyo radio stations which hammered them into the ears of the world. It could be, he said, that the reports of the aviators themselves were just as fantastic and that the imperial fleet headquarters actually believed it had seriously damaged the American warships.

TRIO INDICTED IN POLYGAMY TRAIL

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 31 (AP)—Two women and a man were accused today of intimidating polygamy trial witnesses in indictments returned by a federal grand jury.

The indictments named Edna Christensen, Mrs. Rula K. Broadbent and David Brigham Darger, Miss Christensen, alias Edna Zitting, was convicted of participating in the kidnaping of a 15-year-old girl who allegedly became the plural wife of an elderly cult member. Darger was convicted of a Mann act violation. Both have appealed.

Miss Christensen and Mrs. Broadbent were accused, in the grand jury indictments, with attempting to coerce Mary Marguerite Ford, plural wife of Follis Gardner Petty, Pocatello, from testifying against him. Petty was convicted of Mann act violation.

Injurious Testimony

The charge said Miss Christensen told Miss Ford her testimony would injure many women and children, but that if she "could see the light" Petty would take her back.

Mrs. Broadbent was accused of promising Miss Ford $100 and a home and support by Petty if she refrained from testifying. She also threatened, the charge said, disclosure of letters in Petty's possession which she said would reflect unfavorably upon the witness.

Darger was accused of urging Cathryn Lucy Cosgrove to go into hiding so she couldn't testify against him and Heber Kimball Cleveland at their trial on Mann act charges.

Reports Manila Raid

Halsey's planes, attacking in formations, estimated by the Japanese to total more than 200, also started several large fires and destroyed 12 or more planes on the ground in raids on airfields in the vicinity of Manila.

Japanese planes twice attempted to intercept the third fleet's carriers off southern Luzon, but paid for the effort with at least 59 planes. Another 18 enemy aircraft were shot by search and patrol planes of the fleet near Cebu.

While no definite figures were available on Japanese officers and sailors lost when their navy was smashed in the Philippines last week, best available estimates indicated that some 20,000 to 25,000 probably were aboard the 24 warships definitely sunk and only a small percentage were rescued.

Jap Casualties

Another 10,000 or more presumably were aboard the 13 warships believed sunk in the original engagements last week. Even ships which limped away probably suffered heavy casualties, while several thousand more casualties were likely aboard the 21 listed originally as damaged.

Nearly as important as the number of casualties was their effect on the remaining officers and men of the Japanese fleet, coming as they do on top of heavy Japanese losses in the first battle of the Philippines sea, the battle of Guadalcanal and the battle of Midway.

It was recalled that nine years after their defeat at Trafalgar, the French had more warships than ever before but lacked the will to fight with them. Though the Japanese temperament may lead Japan's fleet to fight again when and if enough ships can be scraped together, the crews' morale never again will be so high.

Sgt. Craft With Aerial Ordnance

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR STATION, England—Ordnance men are responsible for every kind of war missile used in the army from bullets to bombs. Supplying a never-ending stream of "ammo" to fighting men—on the ground or five miles up over a target—is the highly vital job undertaken by ordnance soldiers. As a member of an ordnance unit at a B-24 Liberator station in England, Sgt. Gilbert L. Craft, 762 Second avenue west, Twin Falls, Ida., is an important participant in the eighth air force's onslaught against Germany.

Sergeant Craft entered the service on Dec. 30, 1942. He attended armament school at Lansing, Mich. He holds the good conduct and European theater of operations ribbon. [illegible]

He is a member of the 448th bombardment group, heavy, commanded by Col. Gerry L. Mason, Philadelphia, which was recently cited by the commanding general of the second bombardment division for "outstanding performance of duty" over a six-months' period of combat operations in which the group participated in 100 missions over enemy territory, dropping 4,000 tons of bombs.

Halloweensters Smash Windows

Halloween pranksters got off to an early start Monday night with windows reported broken in two service stations and a small cornstalk fire reported earlier.

Both the Arrowhead and the Veltex service stations in town had smashed windows Tuesday morning. In one of them the pranksters were kind enough to replace the glass with a piece of cardboard.

Firemen answering an alarm found a pile of cornstalks ablaze at 172 Lewis street. No damage resulted.

Two Wives Start Divorce Procedure

Mrs. Vera Sample, through her attorney, J. W. Taylor, Buhl, Tuesday filed suit for divorce from Jessie Daniel Sample, charging him with extreme cruelty. The couple married June 8, 1940.

She also asked for the custody of two minor children and $100 a month alimony. At the same time a temporary restraining order, signed by Judge J. W. Porter, was filed, restraining the husband from interfering with the plaintiff and her custody of the children, and from selling or disposing of community property.

Mrs. Edna Johnson filed suit for a divorce from Leo Johnson, whom she married in November, 1923, at Gooding. She charged cruelty.

She asked the court to award her the househoul furniture and equipment now held as community property and $75 a month pending determination of the action. O. C. Hall is attorney for the petitioner.

Supply of Shoes Shows Decrease

Present inventories and the present rate of production of rationed shoes show the necessity for continued shoe rationing, the OPA and WPB have announced in a joint statement. Airplane stamps No. 1, 2 and 3 in ration book 3 are now valid indefinitely for shoes.

Harper New Head Of Cassia Board

BURLEY, Oct. 31 — Succeeding George Denman, who moved to Boise, Aug. 1, Seth Harper, Cassia county assessor, was named chairman of the county local draft board last night.

To fill the position previously held by Harper, who has served with the group since it was organized, Bruce Johnson, laundry owner here, was appointed to the board.

Since the resignation of Denman, J. W. Brandt has been acting chairman. Slated to leave this area next week, he also will be replaced. At the same meeting, George Mitchell was named secretary of the board.

OPA Checking on Used Gun Prices

The OPA is conducting a survey of the "used gun" market to determine if guns are sold above ceiling prices, according to Mrs. J. W. Newman, consumer representative on the war price and rationing board.

"Seventy-five per cent of the price charged when the gun was new, has been set as the ceiling price when such guns are sold by dealers," she said.

Individual sales from one ultimate consumer to another ultimate consumer are not covered by a ceiling price, but when a dealer sells a gun for an individual, the ceiling price is in effect.

year old twins, moved to Twin Falls after he enlisted.

A graduate of the Hill Military academy, Portland, Ore., Private Gray received his army training at Camp Fannin, Tex. He is the son of Mrs. Goldie Gray Lake, Eden.

PRISONER BUT SAFE

BUHL, Oct. 31—An International Red Cross cable Monday informed the wife and parents of First Lieut. Dean H. Sanner that he is a prisoner of war of the German government.

Missing in action since Aug. 13, the pilot had been on a reconnaissance mission over France that day. He was attached to a heavy bomber unit. Until last April, Lieutenant Sanner had been flight leader for a Flying Fortress group, piloting the plane "Reich's Ruin," sister ship to the famous "Memphis Belle."

The cable, received here by Mr. and Mrs. Webster R. Sanner, his parents, and Mrs. Arleen Sanner, his wife, announced that he was a prisoner and that other details would follow.

Credited with 28 bombing missions before he transferred to reconnaissance flying, the lieutenant has been awarded the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with several oak leaf clusters.

A brother, Lieut. Dale R. Sanner, is at present stationed in England.

BOMBARDIER MISSING

Flight Officer Kenneth Nefzger, Twin Falls bombardier, has been missing in action over Germany since Oct. 5, according to word received here from his wife by his father and grandmother.

Flight Officer Nefzger had 17 missions over Europe at the time he was wounded by shrapnel several months ago. He recovered, went back into active duty and had a "large number" of additional missions prior to the Oct. 5 attack over Germany, his relatives said.

His wife is now at Phoenix, Ariz., and the flier's mother is with her there. His father is E. E. Nefzger and his grandmother is Mrs. Estella Sherlock, both of Twin Falls.

MISSING IN ACTION

HAILEY, Oct. 31—A letter from the war department to Mrs. Al Ivie, Bellevue, confirmed reports that her son, Pvt. Joseph Ivie, has been missing in action since Sept. 21. The letter also stated that there was a possibility that Private Ivie might be a prisoner of war. He enlisted in the army last January and went overseas in August in the infantry.

INFANTRYMAN MISSING

JEROME, Oct. 31 — Reported missing in action is Paul Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Mullen, Jerome.

He was with an infantry division in Holland at the time his unit listed him as missing, his parents were informed.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE

[illegible] was wounded in action [illegible] in France, according to word received by his brother, Terry Anderson, former resident now residing in Fontana, Calif.

Private Anderson enlisted in the army at San Bernardino, Calif., in December, 1941. After taking his training at Camp Roberts he was sent overseas May 1944. He has been in France for the past five months.

MARINE WOUNDED

JEROME, Oct. 31 — Marine Pfc. Vern D. Box, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Box, former residents, now living in Los Angeles, has been wounded in action and is a patient in a Pacific hospital, according to recent word received here by his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Box are visiting in Jerome with relatives and friends and they brought the recent word of their son's injuries. He sustained shell wounds in both legs. He is a grandson of W. P. Box and a nephew of Ben R. Box, both Jerome residents.

Box enlisted in the marine corps on his 17th birthday and has been in service for the past 26 months. For the past 18 months he has been in the southwest Pacific theater and has been in the Bougainville, Cape Gloucester and Marshall islands campaigns.

A survey of items on the menu for the Thanksgiving dinner will be conducted the latter half of November.

Seen Today

Five boys standing in front of cafe waiting for Bing Crosby to come out, then scurrying to next doorway to stare from a distance when he does emerge . . . Small boy riding in back of a truck, looking plenty ghoulish in Halloween false face . . . Women wearing darnedest looking things on their crania to keep off the rain . . . Fellow who finally found a package of cigarettes, but an "off" brand, turning package over and over in attempt to discover what company makes 'em . . . Woman in shorts and raincoat, actually and br-r-r, climbing out of California car on Main . . . Elongated, adult rider of bicycle looking right disgusted as he finds his hands blackened from imitation rubber handle grips . . . And overheard: Woman practically weeping, "We hadn't driven our car much lately and when we blew up the tires after the kids let out the air, one busted on us."

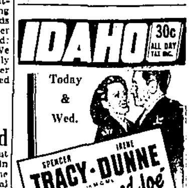
Interment was under direction of Reynolds funeral home.



SPUD-ONION WEEK TO BE JAN. 11-20

BOISE, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Idaho Advertising commission today set the week of Jan. 11-20 as "Idaho Potato and Onion week" and made plans for an intensive sales campaign during that time.

Chairman R. H. Young said reports from the commission field representative, C. G. Rice, and onion jobbers in other states indicate that Idaho's onion advertising campaign is selling some of the national onion surplus.

The state still has a large, unmoved crop, however, and the campaign will be continued through potato and onion week, he said.

The commission and Governor Bottolfsen lunched with the Boise Ad club, eating roast ham prepared by D. L. Toffenetti, Chicago and New York restaurant operator who features Idaho spuds on his menu.

Commissioners recently sent Toffenetti a "certificate of exceptional service to the state of Idaho" signed by the governor, which the restaurant man said would be used as a window display in his cafes.

Members attending were:

Young, Hubert Peckham, Wilder; Lem Cook, Idaho Falls; Frank Westfall, Aberdeen; Joe Marshall, Twin Falls, and I. J. Langeteig, Craigmont.

Appointment of E. N. Pettygrove of Twin Falls as commission secretary was confirmed.

NOW PLAYING AT THE CAPITOL

An army officer attached to the senate military affairs committee thinks that motion pictures might help the senators keep up with the war. Perhaps we're old-fogeyish, but we find the news a little disquieting and beset by many problems.

We are fond of both the senate and the movies. But how will they work as a team? To begin with, where will they put the screen? In the interest of good morale and good reporting, it couldn't possibly go on the press gallery side of the chamber. And wherever it's put they're going to lose one good block of seats and create a bad angle of vision for others.

There have been times when the senate could easily seat all its visitors in three sides of the gallery. But free movies would likely be quite a drawing card—and we don't mean to disparage the present quality of senatorial entertainment in saying so. The senators won't want to offend their constituents or the press with bad seats. So it looks as if a wholesale architectural revision would be the only solution.

This is just supposed to be a wartime measure. But would the senators want to go back to the old arrangement of sound and no pictures? And besides, senators have to stand in line to get into Washington movie houses the same as anybody else.

Once they showed signs of wanting to retain movies in the semi-privacy of the senate chamber, you can bet that Hollywood would pounce upon them. Newsreels and documentaries would give way to regular features. World premieres might take place on Capitol Hill. Hollywood would surely be lavishly persuasive, for there would be much to gain. Think of the publicity value of a senate opening—"Colossal!" says Senator Breeze in the Congressional Record.

But world premieres would bring up another problem—eating. Lobbyists would no longer be content to stand around in lobbies. Pressure groups would press for side seats in return for their support. Representatives, who have a habit of dropping in on the senate anyway, might vote to shelve the tax bill in favor of Abbott and Costello, and come over en masse.

Then there would be a problem of ethics vs. esthetics. Could a Republican fan of Bette Davis or Orson Welles publicly acknowledge senate showing of a film starring these prominent Democrats? Would Democratic senators stand for Republican Bing Crosby, even with Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour thrown in?

Yes, there would be a lot of problems and drawbacks. But senate movies would have at least one strong recommendation. They would certainly help to make filibusters endurable.

THEY ARE WAR-CONSCIOUS

When it comes to drives and campaigns to raise funds for one thing or another, it seems that we have hit an all time high. Whether it's for war bonds, the war fund, Community Chest, Chamber of Commerce, or for some other purpose, a campaign of some nature appears to be going on all the time.

Off-hand, one would think the people would get "fed up" with all these drives, because there's no doubt these campaigns are costing them money.

Actually, however, the public is cooperating in every campaign that comes along, in spite of any grumbling that may be heard.

That was well demonstrated when Twin Falls went over its $26,000 quota in the combined war fund-Community Chest drive. As the president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce pointed out recently, this was one of the most successful drives in the history of Twin Falls.

"Contributors and solicitors alike cooperated to the extent that that whole campaign went off like clockwork," he said, "and the job, in spite of the amount of money to be raised, was completed in record time."

That's a good answer to those who contend the people at home are not war-conscious. They are aware of their responsibilities in this war. And when they are called upon to do their part, they deliver the goods—and more, too!

OPPOSES DISCRIMINATION

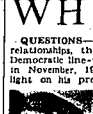
The Twin Falls Grange is to be commended for going on record "opposed to any attempt to discriminate between Americans on the basis of race, religion or color."

While other Grange organizations over the state have adopted resolutions asking for "legislative action" to prevent the relocation of Japanese-Americans in Idaho, the Twin Falls unit of the Grange does not sympathize with any such reasoning.

The Twin Falls Grange's resolution cited the fact that tolerance in this country is one of "the bulwarks of democracy," and added that any deviation from that policy could be the "opening wedge for discrimination against other minority groups."

It is easy, during the heat of war, for certain individuals and groups to discriminate on the basis of race, religion and color, but unless we amend the American constitution to forsake one of its fundamental principles and purposes, all such discrimination is definitely un-American.

TUCKER'S WHIRLIGIG



Ray Tucker

QUESTIONS—President Roosevelt's views on foreign relationships, the Japs, the navy, the Progressive-Democratic line-up, as he related them to the writer in November, 1932, and January, 1933, throw such light on his present-day behavior that the author quotes again from a private memorandum of his talks with the President-elect during that critical period.

As explained in yesterday's column, this reporter was then associated with the New York World-Telegram, and was writing politics for all the Scripps-Howard newspapers. On the request of his editor, he typed this memo after many private interviews at Warm Springs with the chief executive-to-be. Here are some excerpts from that revealing document:

Foreign relations: Except for debts and tariffs, I did not discuss this subject in detail with Roosevelt, but I got certain definite impressions from my talks with him and Ray Moley. Roosevelt, in my opinion, is against setting up hard-and-fast formulae for meeting foreign questions, as Secretary Hughes did with respect to recognition of Russia.

LEAGUE—Roosevelt believes that the world is in such a state of flux that the door must be left open at all times for reconsideration and reaction. This idea motivates him in his manner of handling World war debts etc.

He feels that the United States can use its great economic influence better in dealing single-handedly with nations than in general conference, at least in the preliminary stages. Concretely, this would mean more extensive negotiations with individual countries on tariffs and armament reductions before agreeing to participate in a general conference.

I imagine that he will be more wary about international parleys than recent administrations have been, although he professes a desire to cooperate with the League of Nations in about the same way Hoover has—drug control, studies of international labor statistics, world economic trends etc. Both he and Ray Moley used the word 'self-contained' in referring to their general foreign policy, although it was difficult to get the President-elect or Mr. Moley to explain what this phrase meant in regard to specific problems."

RUSSIA—Here is, perhaps, the salt of the Roosevelt foreign policy then and now:

"In so far as I could discern from talks with Roosevelt and Ray Moley,—the memo states—President Roosevelt will follow this course:

"Until we are in an economic and military position to exert more influence on Japanese policy in Manchuria, other alone or with the cooperation of other powers, we will accept that situation as an accomplished fact and not, for the present, embitter relations by fussing and stewing about it publicly.

"We will seek to improve relations with South America by removing and withdrawing whatever influences have antagonized Pan-American countries in the past. There would be, the President and Mr. Moley indicated, a continuance of interest shaped, of course, by our own concern for what happens on the western continent. But our control would have less of a supervisory and belligerent quality than recent administrations have exhibited.

"We will probably recognize Russia for purely commercial reasons if a study and discussions with businessmen indicate that there is a profit in it, but with a strong disclaimer of any intention of approving the Soviet form of government. Also, according to Professor Moley, the note of recognition might convey the idea that we do not condemn their institutions or set ourselves up as an international judge of other nations' political preferences. If they want what we have got, they can have it so far as we folks are concerned."

POWERFUL—"Although an enthusiast about the navy, Roosevelt insists that economy shall dominate immediate naval considerations. Representative Carl Vinson, Georgia Democrat, chairman of the naval affairs committee, talked 'big navy' when I saw him at our cottage here in Warm Springs.

"After he had spoken to the President-elect at the 'big cottage' on the hill, he came back to our house and stressed 'economy.' I had a long talk with Carl, and left with these notes. (1) Roosevelt's and the President-elect's attitude. Carl has hitherto been strong for building the navy to London treaty strength.

"My general impression after conversations with men who have talked separately with Mr. Roosevelt agree with me, even though it may seem at variance with some of my remarks above in that the future President will be a 'big navy' man in the Gulf Coast sense.

"Indeed, I was somewhat surprised to find this erstwhile pupil and admirer of Woodrow Wilson referring to the World war Presidents as Lincoln and Jefferson more as a basis for gentle criticism than as a guide for the future. It is my definite opinion that Mr. Roosevelt aspires, when the muses of history call the roll, to top Mr. Wilson but, particularly, to outshine Theodore Roosevelt. For good or bad, we shall have in the White House the most powerful and egotistic man since Theodore Roosevelt. I hope a great hope for him, but I also have great fears for the American people.

"I am surprised and hurt at Mr. Roosevelt's depreciation of Woodrow Wilson, who was my hero in collegiate days. But I think that the reason for this abdication of Wilsonian ideals derives from a change in President-elect Roosevelt's attitude since he returned from world conditions and relationships. As a sub-cabinet member serving Mr. Wilson, FDR was a devotee. As a President in his own right, he will be whatever he chooses to be."

VIEWS OF OTHERS

DETWEILER WILL BE EFFICIENT GOVERNOR

One of the most interesting contests at the Nov. 7 election involves the candidacies in Idaho, William Detweiler, Republican, and Charles Gossett, Democrat, are presenting their views to the voters, and are making a systematic campaign throughout the state.

Mr. Detweiler has spent a major part of his life in south central Idaho, and for the past several years has operated successfully a large farm near Hazelton. He has never been active in politics before, but is recognized as a civic leader who has always contributed toward the development of this state.

He was reared on a dry-land Nebraska farm, locating in the Twin Falls section in 1910. When World war I began, he waived any scruples against war his early training as a Quaker had given him and entered the U. S. army in October 1917, serving overseas. Upon his discharge from the army, he resumed farming and livestock operations, which attained outstanding success.

"Bill" Detweiler's three-term legislative record has been colorful and efficient. His four years on the important house ways and means committee provided the intimate knowledge of finance and taxation so vital to an economy platform. His activities in behalf of Idaho's agricultural development include progressive action in the field of noxious weed control and Idaho's advertising program.

With all of this varied experience, this Republican nominee has the background, the training and the ability to serve as one of Idaho's greatest governors. The integrity for which he is noted, the ability which has won him success in farming, and the courage which has won the respect of his fellow men, are the things for him a majority of the votes at the coming election. —Burley Bulletin.

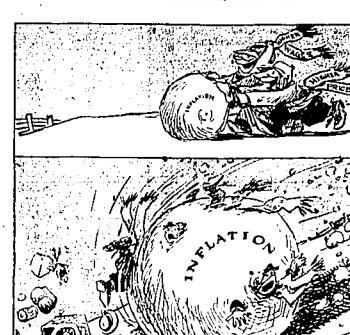
HEROES' VOTES

A complete report on the fate of votes of servicemen killed in action is not in, but already it is certain that these votes will be voided in at least 13 states. In every case it seems that state governments are following the letter of laws which forbid counting the ballot of a person who dies before election day.

But at least one state, New Jersey, has been more concerned with the spirit than with the letter. The attorney general has held that such votes will be counted.

It is incredible to think that other states will not take some similar steps. Ironic is too mild a word for a situation in which a man in his country's service is denied the exercise of one of the rights for which he fought, simply because he died in defense of those rights.—Coeur d'Alene Press.

It May Look Like a Good Idea in the Beginning



"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

OKLAHOMA CITY — They take their politics straight here in Oklahoma. Feeling is stronger in this state than anywhere else in the country, I would guess.

Marquis Childs

The Republicans believe they have the best chance to carry normally Democratic Oklahoma since 1928, when enough Democrats voted against Al Smith to swing the tide for Herbert Hoover. The Democrats are counting again on anti vote.

The stress is on burdensome wartime restrictions; on the volume of paper work that farmers and business men alike must do in order to comply with orders issued from Washington. Campaign oratory is directed at the "bureaucratic new deal."

The hope is that enough disgruntled citizens will decide in the privacy of the voting booth that they want no more of the present administration. Republican leaders look for a big majority from the prosperous farmers in the northeastern counties. That is the level, despite the dissatisfaction of farmers in neighboring Kansas and the middle west generally.

• • •

Free enterprise seems more than a campaign slogan in Oklahoma. Here the boys are drilling for oil. During the past year, they've been developing a few miles from the city what promises to be Oklahoma's big oil field.

At least 5,500 men are at work drilling new wells. Land owners are getting rich overnight. A new forest of derricks is taking shape against the horizon.

Oklahoma oil men play politics with the same zeal that they hunt for pay dirt under Oklahoma's red clay. The boldest player—and plunger—of them all is Sen. Ed Moore of Tulsa, wealthy independent oil operator who is determined to get FDR's scalp if it takes all he's got.

Four years ago, Ed Moore was named a delegate to the Democratic national convention at Chicago. But he went first to the Republican convention at Philadelphia, where he whooped it up for Wendell Willkie. This was the beginning of his shift from the donkey to the elephant.

For Ed Moore, the Willkie campaign was no more than a trial heat. Like so many other Republicans, he feels Willkie threw away his chance by trying to straddle the new deal candidate. Two years ago, to the surprise of nearly everyone, including Moore, he defeated the favorite of the rural Baptists and the Prohibitionists, Democratic Sen. Josh Lee, in the senate race.

Ever since then he has been one of the mainsprings of Republican politics. You hear all sorts of stories about the money he's spending in his campaign to defeat Roosevelt. It was disclosed the other day in Washington that the gave $25,000 to Texas' Sen. Pappy O'Daniel in support of Pappy's violently anti-new deal paper, which circulates in the southwest.

In Ed Moore's books, that would probably go down as a drop in the bucket. This is a crusade to him. His eyes have a dark intensity. His face is lean and cadaverous. His forelock falls down over his forehead to give him the air of one of the fanatics out of the French revolution. You could cast him for Robespierre and he'd look the part.

This man is building the guillotine on which he hopes to see the new deal come to death. Oh, what a beautiful morning it will be in Oklahoma for Ed Moore if, on Nov. 8, the headlines announce the defeat of FDR.

Democrats here are not downcast. They don't know that Roosevelt's majority of approximately 125,000 four years ago, will be cut down. But they're working hard to get out the traditionally Democratic vote in the southern tier of counties, known as little Dixie.

The Roosevelt party has at least two conspicuous political assets in Oklahoma. One is Clow Robert Kerr, also a wealthy independent oil man, who has won considerable fame in Cong. Mike Monroney running for reelection in the district that includes Oklahoma City, has considerable personal popularity, and is expected to pull through even though Roosevelt should lose the state by a small margin.

You're made to realize here the difficulties Dewey will face from his own followers if he is elected. Oil men want a higher price for their oil. Farmers want higher prices for what they sell. They'll be sitting on the White House steps if Dewey takes office, and he'll need all the sternness he can muster to keep from being pushed into the midst of a runaway postwar boom.

POT SHOTS

TRAVELS OF $306

Dear Pot Shots:

The day of honesty has not yet passed.

Take for instance what happened the other day down at the Parisian laundry and dry cleaning plant.

A blue work shirt came in in a bundle from Hailey. It was thrown into the washer. But a workman noticed it among a bunch of white shirts as he pulled it out and threw it aside for marking. Bill Garnett gave it to a girl to mark.

Suddenly the gal screamed: "Wire, I'm rich!"

And thereupon waved a handful of bills aloft.

A count showed $306 worth.

Bill called the Hailey hospital where the laundry came from, and asked a physician who a blue shirt in the bunch of white stuff belonged to.

"A painter who has been doing a little work around here for us," said the physician.

"Well," said Bill, "we found a considerable sum of money in the shirt pocket."

And said the doctor:

That painter will be happy, no fooling. He's looked high and low for that money and had given it up as gone."

SETTLING THAT MATTER OF A $20 GOLD PIECE

The United States mint at San Francisco hereby settles the argument in this column as to what's the value of the gold in a $20 gold piece.

W. M. Kline, not satisfied with the answers he got, wrote to the mint. A good thing he did, too, because the coin collector who sent us one of the replies we printed came in later to say he was wrong. Here's the lowdown from A. R. Hodgson, assistant superintendent of the mint at San Francisco, Mr. Kline:

"The normal weight of a U. S. $20 gold piece is 1.075 fine ounce. It being 900 fine this would compute to 0.9675 of a fine ounce of gold. It is true that gold is $35 per fine troy ounce. However, settlement for such coins, if permissible, would be made at but $20.67 fine ounce, less any loss of weight in the coin itself, and after permission therefor of the director of the mint. As you know, such coins and all U. S. gold coins, with rare exceptions, are required to be surrendered to the mints or to the federal reserve banks."

So, brethren, if you could cash in the gold in a $20 gold piece, which you can't, you probably wouldn't get your $20.

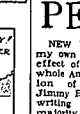
THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—I have presented my own explanation of the vicious effect of the jaw imposed on the whole American people by the opinion of Justice Jimmy Byrnes, writing for the majority of the Roosevelt supreme court, in the notorious teamsters' case.



Westbrook Pegler

Having flatly awarded to the teamsters, guards of freight trucks carrying cargo into New York by beating up law-abiding citizens, without even a pretense of willingness to work for the money, Justice Byrnes retired into the shadowy role of "assistant President."

To do this he gave up the security and prestige, such as it is nowadays, of a place on the highest court in the land to become a mere political trouble-shooter. Then, in Chicago, after he had been given reason to believe that Roosevelt would support him for the vice-presidential nomination, he was rejected by Sidney Hillman and the communists of the CIO's political action. He had come through for Roosevelt's underworld political subsidiary in an appallingly cynical and leering disclaim whose primary beneficiaries were members of the following of the President's friend, Dan Tobin, of the teamsters' union.

But when Byrnes came for Roosevelt to stand by him and assure him the chance of such political future as the President would have to offered, he was deserted by the man he had served so faithfully and at such great sacrifice.

• • •

Did I overstate the perfidy of the Byrnes opinion?

Chief Justice Stone went even further, in his dissent.

Justice Stone wrote that the convicted men, many of them having criminal records, "lay in wait for trucks passing from New Jersey to New York and, by beating the drivers, secured payments of $9.42 for a large truck and $8.41 for a small one.

He it observed that, under the Byrnes decision the amount of the tribute was regulated only by the greed and audacity of the goons. They could have obtained $1,000 per load aboard a truck entering New York, relieving the reliable, trustworthy employe of the trucking company, delivered a load of liquor to a gang of criminals who sold it into the black market. The truck operator was responsible to the client for the goods, not to the driver but the union had no responsibility.

Roosevelt's supreme court, as will be seen, did not give the goon it committ highway robbery to the goons under the command of Dan Tobin who was Roosevelt's host at the occasion of the President's memorable easy into night club repartee and persiflage in Washington.

And not only that, but, later, when the Hobbs bill passed the house, amending the law so that Byrnes' evil decision would be nullified, Roosevelt's watchman in the senate committee which handled the bill, smothered it with inaction. It never came out and the extortion privilege thus was protected and continued to this very day, as millions of people in the world union following, thousands of whom are on record in the criminal files of the F. B. I.

Their disastrous encounter with American naval units in the Philippines is only the latest example of inept strategy.

The public may not have kept statistics, yet there must have been a combats involving fleets in the Pacific campaign than in any other modern conflict. In fact counting their Atlantic and Mediterranean experiences, it is correct to assert that United States sailors and naval fliers are the most battle-wise and battle-wise mariners in our generation.

The men who command for Hirohito have been in a dilemma for a long time: They could strike in force or in driblets and gamble on lucky breaks that would keep their fleet intact and watch their empire melt away. They chose a three-pronged maneuver and have again paid for their bad judgment in engaging our ships and planes with inferior power.

The United States authorities on naval affairs are sure that frequent defeats must have a profound effect on the nipponese population. The Japs, at least all those who are not military people. Probably only a few peasants in the mountainous hinterlands have never heard about the sea. Even with railroads, a large share of transportation is by barge and passenger boat. Every Nip schoolboy has been made conscious of what happens on blue water.

A British naval officer in New York recalls the shock to the English public when the first unfavorable reports of the battle of Jutland were received, although later every schoolboy was hearing about the kaiser's squadrons had fled. Because of geographical position, history and daily living, Britons were hardly capable of the meaning of marine calamities. Comparable jitters must now furnerve intelligent Japanese, acutely conscious of sea power.

• • •

KING—Apparently the foe has lost the skill he possessed when the great Togo walked the quarter-deck in the Russo-Japanese war while the Yanks carry on in the tradition of Jones, Perry, Farragut, Dewey and Sims.

A noted admiral this week gave the writer the following illustration of Admiral King's cleverness: In union by representing themselves to be "bargaining agents" for "labor."

• • •

So Justice Byrnes, while pretending to discriminate between gangs of Hillman and machine-Boss Kelly types, actually conferred this privilege on gangs of this type provided only that they take the trouble to obtain charters as unions. Many such charters have been obtained and operated on a national scale as rackets as subsidiaries of William Green's American Federation of Labor.

"In some instances," Chief Justice Stone continued, Dan Tobin's goons "disappeared as soon as the money was paid without offering to render any service."

Later in his dissent, the chief justice wrote that there was "abundant evidence that the payments were made to purchase immunity from violence and for no other reason."

"When the anti-racketeering act was under consideration by congress," he wrote further, "no member of congress and no labor leader ha. the temerity to suggest that such payments made only to secure immunity from violence and intentionally compelled by assault and battery, could be regarded as the payment of wages or that the compulsion is a legitimate object of a labor union."

So it will be seen that the chief justice was even more contemptuous of Byrnes' reasoning on behalf of the new deal supreme court and for the special benefits of the union politicians and their goon squads than I have been.

It should be realized further that Byrnes here required the owners to pay this extortion to men who could not legally enter the cab of a truck, being disqualified for drivers' licenses by their criminal records. If a man had no driver's license then obviously he could not, by any twist of argument or sacrifice of truth and honesty, be held in the status of "employee," although Byrnes did confer that status on the Tobin goons in the present case. The owners would have been liable under criminal law and responsible for damages if the gangsters with criminal records had been willing to work and they had permitted them to work.

• • •

In a recent case, striking out of the Byrnes' decision, a goon driver, employed aboard a truck entering New York, relieving the reliable, trustworthy employe of the trucking company, delivered a load of liquor to a gang of criminals who sold it into the black market. The truck operator was responsible to the client for the goods, not to the driver but the union had no responsibility.

Roosevelt's supreme court, as will be seen, did not give the goon it committ highway robbery to the goons under the command of Dan Tobin who was Roosevelt's host at the occasion of the President's memorable easy into night club repartee and persiflage in Washington.

A noted admiral this week gave the writer the following illustration of Admiral King's cleverness: In 1942, news leaked out that the Japs were planned to attack Alaska and then raid Pearl Harbor. Word reached the ears of congressmen, who were alarmed.

But when "Ernie" King received the rumors differently. "I think I smell a rat," he told an associate. "They have always been sneaks. This is the first time that they have ever announced their moves. It looks like a trick to me. I believe they are really planning a second blow at Pearl Harbor."

The commander-in-chief of the United States fleet got down to the situation exactly. He rearranged his forces and struck the enemy at Midway where the Japanese navy got its first decisive licking in 350 years.

Incidentally, mental sluggishness creeping into the Japanese army and American officers from New Guinea declare that the staff work of the Japs was "boneheaded." They fought and conquered but failed completely to solve their supply problem.

SPIES—The growth of our 4,000-ton navy has been discussed here previously. Its secret harbors, which made mincemeat of the Nips this week, have kept pace in size and strength.

The finest means for research in hydrodynamics and other aeronautical subjects are available. Laboratories, which timetable corroding acres, impact basins for seaplanes and other realistic testing instruments give our fliers the bst of everything.

In addition we are being helped in the lower Pacific by British aviators. Their fleet arm has been strengthened by new Barracuda torpedo planes and American-built Hurricane fighters. Australian and Dutch pilots were trained in United States schools where they learned the secrets of the Yanks' new air strategy and tactics and made to memorize the shapes of various hostile merchant vessels and warships and their silhouettes.

Against the mounting accumulation of allied experience, brawn and material, the Nips are at a disadvantage. They can no longer "suck the brains" of smarter occidentals. Before the war they planted spies in the best shipbuilding centers and who carried back secrets their own unimaginative engineers lacked.

Now, their steamship executives recall that it was common practice for a Japanese line to order a new ship "in fact" blueprints already submitted and carefully explained by our marine architects. When Tokyo's specialists mastered the technicalities, the firm called off the deal.

U. S. LOOKED FOR RED AERIAL HELP

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Russia's late decision to withdraw from the international civil aviation conference takes away a delegation to which the United States had looked for support in resisting British empire pressure for a world air authority with broad economic powers.

Aside from that, the change of mind—a reversion to Russia's reported original decision to stay away from Chicago—probably will have little effect on the meeting of more than 50 countries. The feeling among some of the technicians who arrived in the first trainload of conference visitors is that the Soviet action has only political significance.

Two Principal Reasons

There are two general reasons for that:

Despite the vastness, Russia's place in the geography is such that it need not be crossed by air routes connecting any of the world's business centers except its own.

Russia cannot well manage to stay out of an international aviation organization or fail to comply with international standards unless it chooses to continue to ignore world flying much as it has done in the past. The Soviet Union never had engaged in international air transport to an extent even approaching that of the Netherlands, France, Sweden, Germany, Great Britain and the United States.

If the Soviets had remained in the conference, it was generally expected they, along with China, would back the United States plan for a broad "right of innocent flight" agreement, with actual operating rights to be bargained for between countries, and for a sharp limit on the economic powers of the world aviation authority which eventually should result from the forthcoming meeting.

Lined up against the American thought is a British belief, supported by the empire and, in fact, first advanced by Canada, that the world authority should establish routes, award them and allocate schedule frequencies. That shapes up in advance as the major battleground for the three-week conference.

There are plenty of other issues to be decided, however, including the likelihood of opposition to the United States proposal that international air transport operations be started as quickly as possible under a provisional arrangement.

FLUORINE HALTS DECAY IN TEETH

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—A reduction of new decay in teeth by 25 to 50 per cent by rubbing a little fluorine on them was reported tonight by Dr. Basil C. Bibby, dean of Tufts dental college, Boston, at a meeting here of the New York institute of clinical oral pathology.

Fluorine is the lemon-yellow gas, the most highly reactive of nature's 92 chemical elements, whose presence in drinking water in very small amounts is thought to build better teeth in children.

Dr. Bibby was one of five leading fluorine authorities speaking tonight, and all of them said that until some years pass, fluorine for better teeth must be considered experimental because this chemical is toxic.

But all the tooth applications no toxic results have been noticed, but the experts agreed that it will require a long time to be sure that there is no cumulative poisoning.

The Tufts experiments used sodium fluoride.

In all the fluorine work so far reported by scientists, the benefits are confined to the young. In drinking water the fluorine builds better teeth only during the period when teeth are growing.

Dr. H. Trendley dean, U. S public health service, Washington, said that in tests of 7,257 white children, those whose drinking water contained as little as one part per million of fluorine had only about one-third as much tooth decay as those whose drinking water contained none of this chemical. More than one part per million didn't improve teeth further.

No Holiday for Election Initial Time in History

BOISE, Oct. 31 (AP)—General election day in Idaho will not be a holiday this year for the first time in the state's history.

The 1943 legislature, in an effort to reduce the number of holidays observed by Idahoans, amended the holiday statute and left to the discretion of the governor the matter of an election holiday.

The statute since territorial days had named any general election a holiday in the state prior to the legislature's action.

Today Governor Bottolfsen said he would not proclaim Nov. 7 a holiday because of the necessity for war work and "in compliance with the legislature's suggestion."

State liquor dispensary Supt. Leland W. Rawson said all state liquor stores will be closed for the day.

FINED $25

BUHL, Oct. 31—Kenneth Evans, itinerant from California, pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge in Judge C. E. Rudy's court, and was fined $25 and costs of $5.40. He also received a ninety day jail sentence, which was suspended on good behavior.

HALSEY MISSED BIG SEA FIGHT

By REMBERT JAMES

ABOARD FLAGSHIP, U. S. THIRD FLEET, Oct. 26 (Dejayed) (AP)—Even the admiral doesn't actually see very much.

Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., directing the American third fleet in its epochal battle against the Japanese off the Philippine islands, was no exception.

This flagship was under periodic bombing for 48 hours off Formosa more than a week ago, but it was far from the scene of actual contact with the enemy when the fleets came to grips off the Philippines.

Under Forced Draft

Admiral Halsey tried his best. The big ship was ordered under forced draft, racing toward the enemy positions. At sunrise there was still hope and the admiral stood on the flag bridge with his hands in his pockets and smiling to himself. Then at noon his cheerfulness began to fade as it became apparent that the battle was moving too fast —the flagship couldn't catch up and would have to let other ships and their planes do most of the fighting.

Still the admiral was hopeful. Taking a small force of the fastest ships, he headed at top speed toward San Bernardino straits, hoping to intercept part of the Japanese fleet there. All afternoon the ships' hulls trembled and their sterns shivered with fleet speed.

Unable to Catch up

Still he could not quite catch up. Before dawn today the group's destroyer screen did locate one damaged Japanese cruiser, traveling alone. Two cruisers and two destroyers moved in, while the flagship was still 15 miles away.

One American destroyer fired colored tracer shells, and the Jap guns replied their flashes visible from the flagship bridge. The second American destroyer moved in, and a series of flares looped through the dark skies, giving a strangely holiday-like appearance. Suddenly the Japanese ship burst into flame. For 30 seconds it burned brightly. Then the fire died and the shooting was visible again. Twenty minutes later there was a great explosion and then just darkness.

The destroyers fired three star shells that lighted up the water for miles around. They drifted into the sea, and everything was dark.

Which was all that the admiral got to see.

Lack of Buyers Halts Sale of Swine at Filer

FILER, Oct. 31—Monday's swine auction sale sponsored by the Purebred Swine association of the south central Idaho district, held at Twin Falls county fairgrounds, was halted after the sale of approximately 20 animals. Lack of attendance was blamed by Col. E. O. Walter, Filer, auctioneer, for the sale stoppage.

Top price for Poland-China boar was $90, and was consigned by P. H. Jensen, Idaho Falls; top price for black Poland-China boar was $77.50, and was consigned by Earl France, Gooding, and the top price for Duroc-Jersey boar was $75, consigned by Roy Stowell, Boise.

Average price for animals sold or not offered for sale were 25 Durocs, 15 Poland-Chinas, 13 Spotted Polands, two Hampshires, two Herefords and five Berkshires.

Parisians Shower Americans With Flowers, Kisses, Liquor

By MARION HAMBY

FAIRVIEW, Oct. 31—"I sure take off my helmet to Lady Luck," says Pvt. Ralph Robertson, according to word received here by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tyrrell. Robertson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robinson, both of Twin Falls, formerly of Fairview and neighboring districts.

"We were in Paris on liberation day and what a day!" he writes. "We were almost mobbed. We could understand enough to know that they were very glad to see us. I kind of like the French custom of greeting, you know, kissing on each cheek as there are so many cute French girls here. There was also plenty of whisky, red and white wine, champagne, cognac and also some real beer. They threw tomatoes, apples, pears and flowers by the truck. They sure are some hand shakers and hug wenchers.

"Paris is a beautiful place. I saw the Notre Dame cathedral and the Eiffel tower and other notable places.

"Their chief means of travel is by bicycle. They even pull trailers and haul the family. The people are swell but I look at them and watch them a while then back about 30 years. By that I mean their homes look like pictures and the way they live. It is all so old fashioned. Their barns and houses are all one building. Most of the houses are built of rock or adobe mud. They are really nice inside, though. Lots of them are clean enough to eat from the floor.

"I used to hear about a Belgian horse and now I see why. Most of them weigh around a ton and are beauties."

He writes that Belgium is too cold and rainy and foggy and he will be glad to be back in the states. He says the soldiers have plenty of cigarettes, gum and chocolate bars. They usually break up the chocolate to make into a hot drink. One thing he seems to miss is good coffee.

In 1943, more than 16,000,000 acres of soybeans were planted in the United States.

PLANES AWAITED 3 YEARS ARRIVE

By AL DOPKING

"WITH THE SEVENTH ARMY DIVISION, LEYTE, Philippines, Oct. 31 (AP)—After three years, the planes for which Second Lieut. Joseph Francis Saint John was waiting in December, 1941, have finally come.

The nose-time bombardier, of Philadelphia, was brought through American lines by a patrol which found him hiding south of Abuyog on Leyte, along with Ensign Edwin J. Bertile, 21, Columbiaville, Mich., naval pilot who joined Saint John in his mouse-versus-cat life with the Japanese after his plane was shot down in the opening days of the current Philippines action.

Saint John was one of a dozen members of the American air force based in the Philippines who declined to surrender to the Japanese. The 12, all but one of whom helped load bombs on Captain Colin Kelly's plane when it made its flight which sank the Japanese battleship Haruna, were waiting with some 900 other airmen on Malabang airfield hoping for reinforcing planes to arrive when the Bataan forces surrendered.

Split up at Mindanao

The group split up in the hills of Mindanao. Ever since, Saint John and three others made their way to Leyte in a frail native launch, arrived May 6, 1942, only to learn that the island commander planned to surrender. Two hours before the deadline, on May 10, they left for Australia in an outrigger boat, but were promptly shipwrecked off the south point of Mindanao. Saint John made his way back to Leyte, subsisted for months on monkey meat, yams and tropical fruit.

His low point was reached last March 18 when: "200 Nips came looking for me. One of the guerrillas saw them coming up the trail. He yelled. I jumped in bro with a tommygun; but as I a d to fire the clip fell out. I aaked back to my shack to get my other two clips, and the Japs opened up. They threw everything at me except Aunt Maggie's drawers. I dived out a window, throwing myself under logs and weeds and tall grass. The Japs charged with fixed bayonets, but they couldn't find me. They stayed all day. I never perspired so hard in my life."

Shack Overlooked

After the enemy party had left his shack in flames, Saint John said he slipped down out of hills and spent the night in another shack the Japs had overlooked.

Later, he returned to a coast watching job and was able to warn Filipino residents of the town of Dulag to leave town two days before the current invasion and accompany bombing.

Brought through the lines to where American fighting planes were based today, Saint John had no comment on the planes for which he had waited so long. His one desire, he said, is to return to the states, which he has not seen in five years. He agreed that his accrued army pay would look good but added drily: "Blondes will look better."

"PRESTONE" Anti-Freeze KEEPS MOVING UP TO THE FRONT!

THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD, with the cooperation of the Anti-Freeze Industry Advisory Committee, has put into effect a state allocation plan for the distribution of all brands of anti-freeze. This is your assurance that there should be enough anti-freeze of some kind to protect the nation's motorized equipment this winter.

However, "Prestone" brand anti-freeze may not be available in some localities. The supply for civilian use is considerably reduced because heavy shipments are going overseas for the Armed Forces.

If you are able to get "Prestone" anti-freeze remember that it lasts all winter. It won't evaporate, boil away or lose effectiveness through "foaming." Protects against rust and corrosion.

14 OPPOSE CITY ANNEXATION PLAN

Proposed enlargement of the city came in for further opposition last night when two residents of the Highland View addition appeared at the city council meeting with a petition which stated that if incorporated "against their wishes" they would "refuse to surrender . . . (their) water stock . . ."

Signed by 14 residents of that addition, the statement was submitted by Mrs. Alma Conklin and Mrs. Woodruff Miller. City Attorney Joseph H. Blandford explained that it was to the advantage of city residents to exchange their stock for city certificates because then the city would pay the assessments on the water. He added that the exchange was not required.

Stating that the reason for the expansion was that the city "needs the taxes," Mrs. Miller asked why property owners weren't allowed to make up their own minds about incorporation.

Mayor Bert A. Sweet then declared:

"I might as well tell you, we're going to take it in." He went on to explain that the taxes that would be collected would not begin to pay for the fire and police protection and garbage collections in the new areas.

Postwar Need

The necessity of having an expansion program functioning when servicemen start to return here and look for jobs, was stressed by the mayor. Reason he gave for the need for the annexation of such a large area, objected to by the two women, was that any expansion program must look to the future when facilities which would do the city now will be outmoded. He specifically referred to the size of water mains to illustrate this point.

Upshot of the discussion was that the council will ask for stricter enforcement of the ordinance requiring garbage collectors to carry canvas covers on their trucks. Mrs Conklin had pointed out that the road near her home was constantly littered with refuse which had fallen from the passing trucks.

At a motion from Councilman Truman T. Greenhalgh, the group allowed a bill of $582.60 to be paid to the American Falls reservoir district in delinquent assessments on 779 city lots. The delinquency was for the period from 1926 to 1943.

Building Permits

Building permits were issued as follows: To James C. Murphy, to glass-in a porch on his store at 333 Eighth avenue east at a cost of $75; to O. H. Coleman, to enclose a store porch in the New School addition at a cost of $100; to Roy E. Small, to add a bedroom to a house at 344 Harrison street; to Shipman Brothers Transfer and Coal company, to make repairs on a shed at 141 Fourth avenue west at a cost of $160; to T. Emerick, 268 Blue Lakes south, to convert a porch into a bedroom at a cost of $200; and to R. M. Reglin, 847 Walnut street, to remodel his home at a cost of $65.

Masters Cites Reformatory Need

RUPERT, Oct. 31 — Ira Masters, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, speaking here last night in the civic building before an audience of 200, stressed the need of a state reformatory instead of using the penitentiary for what he termed "young, first offenders."

Glen Taylor, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, also spoke on the same program, as did Mrs. Ruth Moon, Pocatello, candidate for state treasurer, and O. C. Sullivan, candidate for state superintendent of schools.

"The law should be modified and regulations enacted, especially for first offenders," Masters said. "Young teen-age violators of the law are increasing in number and after the war we are going to have big problem of delinquency on our hands."

As a solution to the problem of first offenders, Masters suggested "teaching them a trade to prepare them for a useful place in society."

You'd Better Get Right With Registrar in Case You Aren't

Saturday night is registration deadline for the Nov. 7 election—so if you're not on the registry books you'd better get there soon.

Those who should register include: (a) Those who did not vote in their present precincts in the 1942 general election; (b) Those who did vote but who have moved into another precinct since then without re-registration; (c) Those who are newcomers.

Persons who registered for the primary election last June need not do so again for next Tuesday's general balloting.

In addition to the need for being on the registry books in the correct precinct, voters must also have the usual qualifications for Idaho electors including legal age and residence requirements.

Twin Falls county registrars, all of whom will be accepting registrations until 9 p. m. next Saturday, Nov. 4, are as follows:

Twin Falls city precincts: No. 1, Mrs. Mildred M. Brown, 361 Fifth avenue east, phone 2476; 2, Cora McCoy, 259 Fourth avenue north, 169; 3, Mrs. Belle White, 123 Eighth avenue east, 393; 4, Mrs. C. MRS. BERGDOLL ASKS CITIZENSHIP

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30 (AP) — Mrs. Berta Bergdoll, German-born wife of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger of world war I, has applied for citizenship and the office of immigration and naturalization service said today the application is being investigated.

(The Evening Bulletin said it had learned that the application has been approved.)

A spokesman for the naturalization service said the matter is still under consideration.

Mrs. Bergdoll is tentatively scheduled to appear for a hearing on Nov. 8. The application was filed May 5 under the naturalization law which permits an alien wife to derive citizenship from her husband.

Mrs. Bergdoll, who married her husband while he was a fugitive in Germany, preceded him to this country where she played a part in bringing him here to face an army court martial. Bergdoll, who was released recently after serving four years and 10 months of a seven year term for draft evasion, now lives in Downington, Pa., with his wife and six children.

OFFICE SEEKERS TREAT VET ISSUE

By The Associated Press

Idaho's two gubernatorial candidates turned their attention to the problems of returning war veterans today as office seekers in the state began their final week of campaigning before the election.

William H. Detweiler, Republican nominee for governor, returned to Boise after speaking in Jerome, and said in a statement that "returning war veterans will be given every consideration on their return."

He said his plan was to revise the state tax structure to encourage new capital investments in the state. The present high income tax and "unscientific tax structure" is keeping investors out of the state, he said.

Pete Leonard, speaking over station KIDO at Boise, said the next governor of Idaho "will serve this state during its most momentous times."

Gossett Capable

"Charles C. Gossett fulfills the requirements for governor during this period," said Leguineche, Boise attorney campaigning for the Democratic candidates. "He will be able to handle these problems created by thousands of men returning from military service."

The senate candidates, Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, Republican, and Glen H. Taylor, Democrat, continued their long distance sparring.

"I reiterate that I stand ready to support an international program of cooperation," Bottolfsen told a Canyon county rally last night at Nampa. He said he would pick the program he thought best suited for the nation and not be guided by partisan influence in making the decision.

He praised Dewey as "an honest, capable man possessed of political acumen. Not a professional politician."

Taylor charged in a talk at Inkom that Dewey waits for President Roosevelt to make a statement and then changes the language, inserts a few words of abuse and then presents it as his own.

Doesn't Believe GOP

"If the rich Republicans who are financing Mr. Dewey believed for one moment that he really meant all these rash promises, they would drop him like a hot potato and take to Roosevelt as the most conservative of the two," Taylor said.

Gossett, on his way to Salmon where he spoke last night, stopped in Boise long enough to issue a statement in which he said "business leaders, farmers and laborers in northern Idaho are predicting a large majority for the Democratic ticket." He said the voters are weighing the achievements of the Democrats with the promises of the Republicans, and are gaining a new respect for the betterment of their conditions during the past 12 years.

Gossett speaks today at Rexburg and Rigby.

His Red Charge

In north Idaho Robert Allshie, Republican candidate for attorney general, said at a rally at Culdesac that "ours is a government of laws, not men, but it takes men to administer them. And your leaders must be men and women of vision and ability."

At Burley last night, Taylor called communist charges by Republicans "forlorn strategy."

"By their indiscriminate use of the charge of communism the leaders of the Republican party in their desperate attempts to smear somebody have done more to create a friendly attitude toward the communists than all the propaganda the communists themselves have ever put out."

FALSE ALARM FIRE

False alarm was the category of a report to the fire department of a blaze on Polk street Sunday. Firemen found a resident there burning a pile of weeds and returned to headquarters.

Dear Friends:

Boy, are things doing at the store today! Just unpacked a big shipment of children's books. You ought to see them. They're really tops in juvenile books, and the price is just 35 cents each. Be sure to bring the children in today and get some of them.

Just a word of caution about Christmas cards, if you haven't already bought yours, get them soon. We have received the last shipment of etchings. These are lovely cards reprinted from Courier and Ives prints. Each box contains 20 cards and sells at $1.00. We also have a special assortment of 21 cards for $1.00. These are in stock, but we do not know how many more we'll get. Drop in and get yours while stocks are still good.

We've also received all the Christmas wrapping kits we'll get this year. Just a few left. Be wise, and you'll have all the Christmas paper you'll need.

Now in closing, remember whatever you need in magazine subscriptions, renewals, books, stationery, we have it or can get it. Remember the children's books at 35c each. Come in, and make it soon.

Sincerely,
J. HILL

GOP EXPECTS TO CONTROL HOUSE

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The next congress may consist of a Democratic senate and a Republican house, as most forecasts have it today.

But the Democrats believe they will retain and strengthen their slim house control because it's a presidential election year, and the Republicans say they have a fighting chance to win a senate majority.

Ballots are to be marked next Tuesday for 1,025 candidates running for 35 senate and 432 house seats. (There are 435 house members, but three—all Republicans—were reelected in Maine Sept. 12).

Candidates for the house number 919, including 422 Democrats and 374 Republicans, with the remainder wearing minor party labels. Fifty-one Democratic, six Republican, and one American Labor candidates are unopposed.

106 Senatorial Nominees

The are 106 senatorial nominees for the 32 full six-year terms and three unexpired terms. Thirty five of them are Democrats and 33 Republicans. One, Senator George, D., Ga., is unopposed.

The present house is made up of 214 Democrats and 212 Republicans, with five vacancies in seats formerly held by Democrats, and four minor party members. A numerical majority is 218.

Republicans have made net gains of 80 and 44 in the off-year elections of 1938 and 1942, respectively, but they lost seven to the Democrats in the presidential election year of 1940. That's why administration leaders predict an increase in Democratic seats this time.

Need Only 6 More Seats

But Republicans point out that all they need to do is hold their present strength and pick up six seats more to control and organize the new house.

Rep. Halleck, Indiana, chairman of the committee campaigning for house GOP candidates, thinks his party may pick up a net of 60 seats. He says he sees chances to take over 75 memberships now held by Democrats, while "no more than 12 or 15 Republican house members seem to be having any serious difficulty."

Halleck's opposite number for the Democrats, Rep. Dewey, Virginia, says indications are the Democrats will gain 20 to 40 new seats, while Speaker Rayburn, up for reelection himself as a Texas Democrat, says he expects his party to gain 25 to 40. Rayburn says he bases this partly on the fact that the President is on the ticket this year.

Senate Picture Different

The senate picture is somewhat different. There the Democrats are in firmer control with 58 seats against 37 for the Republicans and one Progressive. Forty-nine is a majority.

Of the 35 seats to be filled next Tuesday 23 are now held by Democrats and there will be 36 holdovers. Thirteen Republican seats are at stake, with 34 holdovers.

Thus, the Democrats need only to win 13 of the 35 contests to retain control, or only six outside the solid south where seven Democratic incumbents are up for reelection.

The Republicans will have to win 25 of the 35 senate contests to gain a clear majority in the new senate—49. They might do it with 24 victories provided Henry LaGuardia (Progressive), not up this year, votes with the Republicans to organize that branch.

To Reelect Incumbent

Former Sen. John G. Townsend, jr., Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, says his party will reelect all 13 incumbents on the ballot and take 10 seats from the Democrats, for a total of 23.

He says he is "confident" of electing Republican senators to seats now held by Democratic Senators Gillette, Iowa; D. Worth Clark, Idaho; Scott W. Lucas, Illinois; Samuel D. Jackson, Indiana; Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma; Robert F. Wagner, New York; Arthur Walsh, New Jersey; Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri; Elbert D. Thomas, Utah, and Homer T. Bone, Washington. The two Clarks were defeated for renomination, Jackson is candidate for governor in his state, Walsh did not run for the nomination, and Bone has been named to the federal bench.

Predict Majority

Senator O'Mahoney, Wyoming, head of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, predicts that the Democratic majority will be maintained. He foresees a "tough fight" for reelection of Sen. Gillette, Ia., but expects other Democratic incumbents to pull through.

O'Mahoney says the Democrats also have a "good chance" of taking a Republican seat in Wisconsin from Sen. Alexander Wiley and of adding a Democratic seat in Oregon, where two Republican memberships are at stake.

Current New Deal Prosperity Synthetic, Dworshak Charges

Calling the present prosperity "synthetic" and declaring that "the trend has been away from the new deal and toward the Republican party in recent weeks," Henry Dworshak, second district congressman and candidate to succeed himself, spoke at a Republican party banquet here last night.

The banquet was attended by state candidates, including John Sanborn, candidate for lieutenant governor; James W. Keating, candidate for secretary of state, and N. P. Nelson, candidate for state auditor, and also county candidates, central committee chairmen of the eight Magic Valley counties and Twin Falls county precinct committeemen.

Saying that the present prosperity is "a synthetic one," Dworshak declared that "I. O. U.'s are being written for our children 'and our children's children.' He continued:

Must Consider Realistic Aspects

"Have we deteriorated to the extent that we are ready to mortgage the lives of our children, and their children and their children's children? It is up to you people, and to all Republicans, to impress upon the county and state voters that there are some realistic aspects which must be considered.

"We Republicans, as Americans, sense the challenge that confronts this nation today. Many Jeffersonian Democrats are giving us their support. Perhaps they were for a third term but when it comes to a fourth, they realize as we do, the true dangers which exist."

The congressman said that interest requirements alone on the debt of the nation now takes as much money as all the taxes which were collected in this country as recently as 1940.

Inviting Bankruptcy

"It is inviting chaos and bankruptcy," he said.

In a radio address which he gave following the banquet, Dworshak declared that "the time has come to elect a President who believes in the American people."

"We need a President who will select assistants who have faith in our Republican form of government and will restore the liberty and freedom of individuals.

"Such a man is Governor Dewey. With him as President the era of new deal punitive taxation, threats to business and agriculture, and red tape for industry will end and new businesses can get started. Our returning soldiers will have a chance to go into business for themselves, and jobs in private industry will return."

Concerning the issue of the present campaign, and the election, Dworshak declared that it was Americanism.

Want Quick Victory

"Americanism is our attitude toward the war," he said, "because America wants a quick, thorough victory so our boys can return home soon and remain there forever.

"Americanism is our attitude toward the peace—for America believes in the equality of men.

"Americanism is giving women work jobs in which they can have a pride of accomplishment, an opportunity to advance themselves, and the ability to provide an American standard of living for their families. America stands for faith in the future, a willingness to work hard for success and a confidence in having the ability to accomplish incredible things.

"The issue is, shall there be a restoration of American liberties and American opportunity after the war for both individuals and industry, or shall we continue with bureaucracy and waste and federal spending and regimentation under the new deal?

Choice You Must Make

"That is the choice which you must make. I am confident that you will turn aside the new deal for a fourth term. You will insure a victory for the home front by revitalizing the vision and the courage of past generations, and reaffirming our faith in constitutional government. You can accomplish this only by voting the Republican ticket."

The congressman also urged the election of the Republican ticket "from top to bottom" and said that in the Magic Valley the voters had the opportunity to elect a man for governor (W. H. Detweiler) "whose ability and integrity are known throughout south central Idaho."

"With Gov. Dewey and a Republican administration in Washington, our state government can function more efficiently by having Republicans in power in every office in the state," Dworshak concluded.

Sanborn Speaks

At the dinner the three state candidates spoke briefly.

Mr. Sanborn, who lives in the Hagerman valley, said that "Idaho needs developing in the postwar era."

"We are planning," he said, and hope that we can give full employment in our state to those who want jobs. We want our boys to stay in Idaho when they come back home."

Sanborn declared that C. A. Bottolfsen, the present governor who aspires to the senatorial seat, "is far more able to represent Idaho than an entertainer who did nothing for, or gave any thought to, government until he decided he wanted to be senator."

He had reference to Glen Taylor, the Democratic nominee.

"This is one of the most important elections we ever faced in a lifetime," he said.

After the speakers were heard at the banquet, and after those present listened to Dworshak's broadcast which followed his personal talk to them, county candidates were introduced.

The banquet was held in the Baptist bungalow and was served by ladies of the Baptist church. E. W. McRoberts, chairman of the Twin Falls county Republican central committee, was toastmaster.

Stephan on Radio

On the radio, Dworshak was introduced by Frank L. Stephan, prominent local attorney and Republican party worker.

In the introducing, Stephan said that Dworshak was openly against the proposal that the power of congress to declare war be delegated to one person.

"I might say to you that I firmly believe that if Henry Dworshak were the only Republican representative in congress and all members of the opposite political faith were committed to delegate such power to one person, Henry Dworshak would still stand up and fight against surrendering that sacred right.

". . . the voters of Idaho should not hesitate to return him to congress for he is an outstanding member of what, until the advent of the new deal, was the finest law-making body in the world. Personally, I want to see him returned as a member of congress so that that body may regain some of the powers that it once rightfully exercised. So long as he is a member of congress he will continue to fight for Idaho and for the people of Idaho," Stephan said.

Southern Vet at Oakley Is 99 Now

OAKLEY, Oct. 31—Albert Sheppard, well known Oakley pioneer has observed his 99th birthday.

He is the oldest man in the Oakley area, one of the oldest in Idaho and the only Confederate veteran in the state.

Mr. Sheppard was born Oct. 9, 1845. He enlisted in the army when he was 16 years old and was in a hospital convalescing from wounds at the end of the Civil war. He came to Oakley in the fall of 1891 and has lived in this area since that time. He is living with a daughter.

Domestic Run of Water Wednesday

To enable Salmon trout residents to fill their ponds and cisterns, the Salmon River Canal company will have a domestic run of water Wednesday morning, a company official announced Monday.

The delivery will be the first since the regular run stopped Sept. 13. No other domestic run is contemplated this year, the official said. Gate height at the reservoir is 24.50 feet at present and storage amounts to 28,175 acre feet.

Part of the Alphabetical Agencies Created Under the Reign of the "New Deal"

Here are but a few of the alphabetical agencies and bureaus that have been created under the New Deal. These include only the principal and parent bureaus. According to the Federal Register and other sources of reliable information, bureaus, agencies and commissions set up by the New Deal totaled 2,241 as of June 1, 1943. To list them all would require 50 typewritten pages. There are 90 bureaus and departments having the right to undertake real estate transactions alone. Most of them, tax-exempt, are competing with each other and with tax-paying insurance companies, banks, building and loan companies and private capital.

DO YOU WANT A CONTINUATION OF THIS "SOUP LINE" FOR BUREAUCRATS?

If Not

VOTE FOR DEWEY!

Are you in favor of continuing this "left wing" philosophy of government in the United States? Do you want to be governed by bureaus, bureaucrats and chackpots—governed by those who were never elected by the people, are never accountable to the people, and who derive their power by appointment, decrees and directives? Do you want to continue paying taxes to support all these hundreds of bureaus which now represent the greatest political power in American history? Do you want to maintain this alphabetical "soup line" for the "left wing" philosophers who think the government should take over everything?

If not, vote for Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, the man who challenges this vast bureaucracy which for the last 12 years has ignored the principles of representative government! Now's the time to put an end to all these un-American activities—before it is too late.

"I know something of taxes. For three long years I have been soaring up and down this country preaching that government—Federal and State and local—costs too much. I shall not stop that preaching."
—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Chicago July 1932

"I accuse the present (Hoover) administration of having the greatest spending administration . . . in all history. One which the political Bureau on Bureau, Commission on Commission, Bureaus and Boards have been established at the expense of the taxpayers."
—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sioux City, September, 1932

"There were established (approximately) under: Willkie, 67; Hardy, 30; Coolidge 44; Hoover 30; Roosevelt? more than 2,200."

Gorgeous Chrysanthemums to Highlight Garden Club Tea

Chrysanthemums in all their gorgeous range of colors will be featured in a display arranged by Mrs. H. A. Severin when members and guests of Twin Falls Garden club attend the tea calendared for 2 p. m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Latham, 371 Fillmore street. For the past three years the club has held a chrysanthemum show and the tea is taking the place of that this year, it is announced. It is expected that each member will bring some of her choice blossoms to make up a varied and attractive showing.

A number of clubs and several of the Magic Valley Granges have Halloween parties planned for tonight and regular meetings scheduled for early November with more serious matters for consideration. Among the larger group parties tonight will be one at the LDS second ward recreation hall arranged by the second ward M.I.A.

Business and Professional Women's club members will attend the dinner meeting at Park hotel, at which honor guest will be Mrs. Ida B. Cobbett, Kellogg, state president.

A large delegation is expected from Jerome, Gooding and Buhl, together with a record attendance from the Twin Falls club at this district dinner meeting when Mrs. Cobbett will address the group. She will go from here to visit the Rupert and Burley clubs.

Mrs. Cobbett, who is an accomplished organist, was president of the Kellogg BPW club for several years before she was chosen for the state office.

A Halloween party for a number of young friends of Tommy Cole and Jill Langham was arranged Sunday evening at the Langham home by Mrs. R. M. Cole and Mrs. H. D. Langham, mothers of the hosts.

The house was gaily decorated with jack o'lanterns, witches, skeletons and other spooky symbols of the season, and each guest was presented a clever paper hat, horn and candy favors. Games and contests included the ever popular applebobbing act, and several prizes were awarded the children.

Tommy and Jill's guests included Diana Sue McNew, David and Bill Weaver, Jeanette Brann, David Swan, Becky Fagin, Johnnie Chapman, Billy Hodge, Thayre Bailey, Edna Mae Stokes, Nancy Trail, Gordon and Michael Gray, Keith Cole, Stephen Craig and Hali Langham.

Several mothers of the children were present and assisted in serving refreshments.

Another children's party was that Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carson, when their eight-year-old daughter, Sharon Ann, entertained a group of her friends at a Halloween frolic. A number of clever games and contests were conducted and refreshments were served at a table attractive with Halloween decorations and centered with a lighted jack o'lantern.

Sharon Ann's guests were Nan Boden, Patricia Hogue, Joan Bevan, Phyllis Merkle, Mike Deter and Mollie Wadsworth.

Among service men who have recently been home and informal dinners and parties have feted is Lieut. Earl Hayes. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hayes gave a dinner party at their home honoring him and also his house guest Lieut. Leon Hastings, who came from Pocatello with him. Other guest of honor was Robert Blandford, V-12 student home from University of Washington, Seattle, for a brief stop en route to New River, N. C., where he will have five weeks' training before entering marine corps officers' school at Quantico, Va.

Mrs. Paul Hadley, Salt Lake City, Utah, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor, was guest at a party for members of the Mon Con bridge club Monday evening. Mrs. Hadley, who formerly made her home in Twin Falls, was a member of the group at that time.

A dessert supper was served at quartet tables centered with bouquets of orange and yellow nasturtiums, and other appointments followed out the Halloween motif.

Prize for high score was won by Mrs. Artell Kelley, second high by Mrs. Charles Comer.

A surprise gift shower was a feature of the evening, the honoree being Mrs. M. E. Doerr.

Pvt. Roy W. Cederburg who is home on furlough shared honors at a chicken dinner and afternoon party recently with little Miss Judith Wilson on the occasion of her third birthday. The affair was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cederburg, parents of Private Cederburg.

Following dinner a number of games were played, and Judith's gifts were opened. At 4 p.m. the birthday cake and ice cream were served.

Guests besides the honorees and Mrs. Roy W. Cederburg and children, Gloria, Jean and Russell, were children from the nursery home of Mrs. Cederburg and included Charlene and Lorita Weighall; Barbara Jean, Billie Ray, and Ellen Ford; Francis Hill, Dennis and Jerome Douglas; Charles and Delbert Gardwell, Alpha Lee Cederburg; and Judith's brothers David, Darrell, Gail and Dale Wilson.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

Please do not make the mistake of thinking that progressive education means that a child can do without a teacher or without his parents to lead and instruct him when necessary to push and prod him into right ways.

Nature does not heed our progressive ideas. She has her way and according to her, a human child has a long span of growth during which he is to learn how to manage the world he is to live in and how to push the progress a bit further along the road to happy living.

Children do not learn the wisdom of the race until they are pushed toward doing so. Few indeed are the children who can teach themselves to read. Somebody, preferably, a well trained and skilled teacher, must show them how to learn and how to use what they learn.

Reading is fundamental education. A child who cannot read intelligently will never be educated in any worth-while meaning of that term. And he must be taught, drilled, tested and made competent in reading by someone who knows why and what and when.

Three R's Important

The three R's are important in a child's growth in school and out. He must be taught them so thoroughly that they come to his call as easily and accurately as his own name. He will never do the necessary work to accomplish that end without the power of a teacher behind him.

Don't fancy that a high school student has reached the place where guidance, instruction and authority have no share in his training. He needs help and needs it acutely if he is not to waste his energy, his time and his growth-span. That growth span is limited.

Learning During Span

He will not always be able to learn with speed and accuracy as now. He must learn during the learning span or never. That important fact is often overlooked by people who are either too lazy to follow up the pupil's efforts or too ignorant to know that he should. The high school years must be used for the purpose nature ordained, acquiring the tools of education, the basis for usefulness. Once the growing span closes, it is difficult to go back and learn what should have been learned at the right time.

Help boys and girls in secondary school to budget their time, to plan work intelligently, to study economically as to time and effort, to fix on their purpose and achieve it. Do this so gently that the student feels your helpfulness without feeling your hand upon his growth.

But help him. No child can rear himself. That is way nature tolerates the older generation. Her youth must be guided and trained to strength and usefulness before we pass out.

Nurse Receives Call to Army

Graduating from cadet nurses training in May, 1944, at St. Mark's hospital, Salt Lake City, Utah, Miss Aileen Shover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shover, Buhl, has recently received her call to report to Ft. Lewis, Wash., where she will enter the army nurses corps as a second lieutenant. Miss Shover started nurses training in 1941 and transferred to cadet training soon after the program was inaugurated.

She will leave Nov. 1 for Ft Lewis.

Guest Speaker At Jerome BPW

JEROME, Oct. 31—Letters from Mrs. Ida B. Mason, Twin Falls, state president, and Miss Marjorie Jones, former president of the Jerome group, were read at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club held recently at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Dykes. Miss Jones is now a student at University of California, Palo Alto, Calif.

Members discussed and adopted resolutions regarding time and staff takes office in the spring, and Mrs. Alta Day and Miss Edith Nancolas reported on the recent district convention in Burley. Other business at the session included consideration of scholarship fund, and voting of a gift to the war chest building fund to assist in providing Christmas boxes for service men and women in camps and hospitals within this area.

Announcement was made of the visit of Mrs. Ida B. Cobbett, Kellogg, state president, to this district, and that a large delegation from the Jerome group should attend the dinner meeting at 6:30 Tuesday at the Park hotel, Twin Falls.

William A. Peters, guest speaker, presented a non-partisan talk on the war of surprises, in the course of which some of the points to consider in making up one's mind how to vote are listening carefully, reading widely of editorials from both sides of the election contest, and in voting to give whoever is elected in an executive capacity, both in state and national elections, the proper persons as his "official family." Not to do this, Mr. Peters stated, "is not voting intelligently."

The group also discussed the five amendments which are to be voted upon at the forthcoming election.

An invitation to visit the Gooding club at their late November meeting was accepted, and a number expect to attend from Jerome.

Mrs. Florence Robinson, employe of the North Side Canal Co. was a special guest.

The next meeting is announced for Nov. 8 at the home of Mrs. Nina Stuart.

AUTUMN

The leaves are carpeting the ground,
The birds to winter homes have flown,
And there's contentment to be found
As silently I gaze around
The land that is nature's own.

And so, when autumn comes to me
And my summertime is o'er
I pray my autumn, too, may be,
A quiet, calm serenity
Like that in Nature's store.

Older Women Can Keep up to Date

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

If your mother says "It doesn't matter how I look, I'm an old lady," it's up to you to jockey her out of that attitude. The fuller life she'll live because she does is as important as your pleasure in seeing her stay young.

One girl wise to all of this is Miriam Young—in private life Mrs. Walter Young, a Brooklyn housewife, who recently authored "My Mother Wore Tights."

Although the book's subject is a mother famed for 30 years as a Floradora Girl, the now retired Mrs. Frank Burk is heckled by her daughter to get her silvery hair blue-rinsed and swirled to wear upright foundation; to pick youthfully styled clothes.

"Results are wonderful, even though prodding is needed," says her daughter. "My mother looks as lovely as the days when I, as a chick-stage child, used to stare at her beauty."

Shower Arranged For Buhl Bride

BUHL, Oct. 31—Honoring Mrs. H. E. Brown, who before her marriage was Miss Betty Jess, Miss Lelia Mae Woodruff entertained for 30 girl friends recently. Mrs. Woodruff home was decorated with a profusion of fall flowers, and each girl, presented with a corsage. Quoglon and answer games were enjoyed, and the girls wrote an entertaining letter to the bride-groom, obtained from the bride, which proved very amusing. Winners in contests were June Tate, Audrey Hustead and Sally Swapp.

The honoree opened gifts from small tables piled high with gaily wrapped packages.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the evening.

Featured at SAFEWAY STORES

ON THE SPORT FRONT

By GEORGE T. REYNOLDS

Ye Olde Sport Scrivener has got a sneaking idea that Lud Drexler is slipping as a nimrod, even though he's got his finger on the hunting game's pulse constantly as secretary of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game commission.

Monday the mighty hunter reported to the pudgy one that he came out of the Soldier Mountain area without a deer—in fact, even without seeing one, and also that he had traveled 65 miles in this pheasant paradise, Jerome county, without adding the feathery creatures to his bag.

Drexler was moaning low. There just wasn't any game, and the ancient word puddler so reported.

But no sooner had the T-N chipped off the press then in burst "Don" Donald, the Joe Louis of the nimrods, who shouted: "What do you mean there aren't any pheasants this year? Why wife and I both got the limit Sunday.

"But you've got to get off the highways. You're really got to go after them and what's more you've got to have a good dog."

A few minutes later the telephone rang. Earl Davidson was at the other end.

"Who told you that you couldn't get any game in the Soldier mountain area? Come on down to my place and I'll show you a real first-point buck elk that ought to draw out at about 400 pounds."

He said that he and Zeke Ward got three—two of the four that they saw on the trip.

Davidson reported that Ward was the 13th hunter to check in at the Fairfield station and was the 13th to check out a deer. Too, his hunting license starts with "13" and ends with "13."

"So you see it isn't as unlucky as it seems but neither is No. 12 which I held going in and coming out."

Hunting always was able to provide oddities. Here are a few more:

Oscar Loewen was pheasant hunting on his place just southwest of Dallas, Ore., when he saw a three-point buck idling nonchalantly in a prune orchard. Realizing he couldn't lawfully use his shotgun on this buck, he sprinted 500 yards to his farm home, got his rifle, raced back and made the kill. It was Loewen's first deer—and his first shot with the rifle.

M. Loree, of Cove, went deer hunting—and came back with a cougar measuring 8 feet, 9 inches from tip to tip.

A trio of Blachly, Ore., hunters bagged a three-point buck without firing a shot. Earl Myers and Lyle Pritchard, driving for Ray Wolfe, came out of a thicket face-to-face with the three-point. As he shot, Myers picked up a rock and knocked the deer unconscious, then cut his throat.

ARMY NOW NO. 1 IN GRID WORLD

Illinois Defeated but Drops Irish to Second

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Army's unbeaten football horde replaces Notre Dame today as the kingpin in the collegiate world in the opinion of 101 of the sports writers polled by the Associated Press.

The cadets were marked No. 1 on 41 of the ballots and drew enough attention in the other berths to pile up 898 points. Notre Dame, listed on top by only 15 writers, was placed on every one of the ballots to wind up second, exactly 100 points behind Army.

It is the first time in 14 tabulations that the Irish, who had a mythical June Saturday in turning back Illinois by a 13 to 7 score, have not been on top.

A week ago the South Bend ramblers were on top by eight points but led in the voting for first with 40 such markings to 30 for army.

On Every Ballot

The Cadets, who came from behind a 7 to 6 score at the half to subdue Duke by a 26 to 7 mark Saturday, also were listed on every ballot this week and received 32 nominations for second, 18 for third, four for fourth, three for fifth, two for seventh and one for ninth.

The two leaders are scheduled for New York city's Yankee stadium a week from Saturday.

Ohio State's all civilian outfit garnered 18 designations as the country's best and moved into third place with 772 points, shoving the potent Randolph field aggregation to fourth with 716. The Texas fliers dropped back on 18 ballots. Both the third and fourth teams thus finished with more first place tickets than did army.

Georgia Tech Fifth

Georgia Tech, Navy, Iowa pre-flight, Northern Carolina pre-flight, Illinois and Michigan followed the top four in that order. The return of the middies to the elite ranking and the elevation of Illinois and Michigan was made possible by the dropping of Tulsa, Pennsylvania and Purdue following their defeats of Saturday.

The big 10 boilermakers took the biggest dive. Tenth a week ago with 174 points, they skidded all the way to a three-way tie for thirty-second place with three points after losing to Michigan 40 to 14.

The ranking teams, determined on a basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. (First place votes in parenthesis):

Army 141 898.
Notre Dame (15) 798.
Ohio state (17) 772.
Randolph field (18) 716
Georgia Tech (1) 532.
Navy (1) 498.
Iowa pre-flight 315.
North Carolina pre-flight 174.
Illinois 96.
Michigan 167.

Second 10

Second 10 were Purdue, Fourth Airforce (68), 149; 12, Bainbridge, Md., Naval (2) 105; 13, Southern California 100; 14, Great Lakes 80; 15, Indiana 56; 16, Tennessee 45; 17, Wake Forest 40; 18, Mississippi State 32; tie for 19th and 20th, Alabama and Oklahoma A. & M. each with 28.

Also rans—Norman, Okla., Navy 16; Second Airforce 15; Pennsylvania 15; Third Airforce 15; Tulsa 14; Virginia 13; Washington 8; Yale 8; Duke 8; Tulane 4; Camp Peary 4; Fort Pierce Navy 3; Purdue 3; North Carolina 3; Rice 2; Holy Cross 2.

Hagberg Will Miss Big Tilt

By FRED STABLEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Chances that the twice-bruised navy football team will turn back the mighty Irish of Notre Dame Saturday at Baltimore hit a new low today when Tar Coach Oscar (Swede) Hagberg decided that Jay Hall's pacing threat, Hal Hamberg, was definitely out of the test.

Hamberg, whose accurate serials were practically all Navy's attack in its 33 to 6 losing effort against Notre Dame last year, was in for just three plays and aggravated a leg injury in his team's 26 to 0 conquest of Penn Saturday at Philadelphia.

Only last night, Hagberg still held out hopes that the 150-pound firebrand Hamberg, who averaged 19 yards per passing and running try in three games this year, would be back in there against the Irish. Last year against Notre Dame on Thanksgiving he clicked for 13 completed passes and Navy's only score on a heave to Bill Harrow.

With Hamberg out, passing duty fell to Bob Jenkins, the former Alabama flash, and possibly Bruce Brandt, who promised a great day at halfback, who has been little action this year. Neither, however, can hope to fill Hamberg's shoes.

Ralph Ellsworth, the former Texas running star, who played a little against Penn after being down with injuries, was reported in condition as was Dave Barksdale, star blocking back. Ed Demmree, first string guard who has been out since the Penn State game with a knee injury, is likely to be ready against the Irish Saturday.

With Demaree back, Navy's normally bullet-proof line should be in top physical shape to withstand Notre Dame's famed offensive.

Cadets Still Fear Middies

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (UP)—Lieut. Col. Earl "Red" Blaik, relaxing briefly at the Barclay hotel, admitted that he was pleased with the 27-7 performance of his powerful army team against Duke; then added, "I'm keeping in mind, however, what navy did to Pennsylvania."

Army coach emphasized that navy, in registering Saturday's 26-0 triumph over perfect-record Penn, disclosed that it had "found itself at last—definitely arrived." Although navy combinations are clicking now, he said; and its line is playing magnificently.

In view of the army mentor's open admiration for the middies' team, would he predict the outcome of Saturday's collision at Baltimore between navy and unbeaten Notre Dame?

Strong Line

"No," said Blaik, "I'd rather not predict. However, I will say that Notre Dame will be stacking up against the strongest line it's met this year—and the deepest, a team that can hold the speedy, well-coached Pennsylvanians to a deficit of 20 yards running must have a line that's something out of this world."

A reporter remarked that Notre Dame apparently met its match in lines Saturday against Illinois. Blaik said, "yes, the statistics show that Notre Dame really met something at Champaign." However, the army coach did not modify his previous statement about the navy line.

Army Has Breather

Army has a "breather" with weak Villanova Saturday. After that, the cadets engage Notre Dame at Yankee stadium, Nov. 11; Pennsylvania at Franklin field, Philadelphia, Nov. 18, and Navy at Annapolis Dec. 2.

Naturally, Blaik would like to have his perfect-record soldiers win all four contests; but above all he is desirous of victory over navy in the annual service classic. Since Red became head coach at West Point in February, 1941, he has had the pleasure of seeing one of his teams beat the Annapolis gobs, who now are trying for their fifth straight victory over army.

Despite navy's impressive showing against Pennsylvania Saturday, it was apparent from Blaik's demeanor that he regards the schedule with refurbished confidence, not what his squad showed satisfactorily its first major test in the Duke game.

Needed Game Badly

"We needed that game rather badly," he said. "It will do us a lot of good. Before we met Duke, we weren't quite sure what would happen when we stacked up against stiff opposition. But the boys played well. They beat a good, game team, and had to come from behind to do it. It will make them more certain of themselves."

A reporter remarked that fullback Felix Blanchard performed as impressively as any back he ever had seen—seemed to be almost as fast as Little Buddy Young of Illinois, although packing 200 pounds on a six-foot frame.

Blaik agreed, "yes, Blanchard is a fine back; but don't forget Glenn Davis. (Red grinned) He's mighty good too."

Why did army refrain from using passes in the second half?—to mislead its attack?.

Blaik countered with, "why should we gamble with passes when our ground attack was rolling?"

Welterweight Best of Body Punching Boxers

By CHIP ROYAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—"Punch! Punch!" yelled Johnny Greco's father when the little Canadian was 13 years old. Johnny punched—and floored the old man with a wicked right. He has been punching with success ever since.

Now the youthful welterweight title contender, recently given a medical discharge from the Canadian army, comes back to Madison Square Garden Friday evening, Nov. 17, to fight Long Island's tough Bobby Ruffin.

Best of Body Punchers

Johnny weighed only 85 pounds when he first started boxing in a Montreal boys club. Today he scales around 145, and is one of the best body punchers in the business.

You will see plenty of that shooting for an opponent's head unless he sees an opening. He concentrates his attack on the mid-section until he forces his opponent to drop his guard low to protect the body. Then whang goes his hard right.

It hurts. Watching the meeting an ex-soldier in your Uncle's army, released because of a sinus condition, Benny's also a son of a fighting father which should mean a slam-bang battle.

As a matter of fact, Bobby says the Ruffins are the best dad-son combination the ring has even known. Greco says he and his pop are, so the winner of the garden contest can claim the honor for his old man as well.

Follower of Louis

Johnny has always been a follower of heavyweight champion Joe Louis. "A long time ago," explains the Canadian, "I heard about all some of the boys about punching. The champ said you can't hurt your hands when you hit 'em in the belly, and besides you can wear a man down faster.'

"Well, I've never had the pleasure of meeting him—Joe," explains Greco with a sly dig at lightweight champion Bob Montgomery, "but I have been taught the value of body punching and I mean to use the knowledge against Ruffin and the rest of them until I win the welterweight championship.

"Where does Fritzie Zivic get off saying he's the only guy who can lick Freddy Cochrane for the championship? My army training was just what the doctor ordered for a tougher punch. Bring on Zivic, Cochrane or any other welterweight. I'm going to win that title."

Many fans who have seen Johnny in action say he punches "like a heavyweight." The Canadian explains it by saying:

"I've been building heavier boxers all my life. I always train with heavier boys. That gives me a harder punch and helps me to set a faster pace against the lighter fellows."

Coach's Boast May Come True

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (UP)—Coach Carroll Widdoes of Ohio State's battling Buckeyes amazed the traditionally pessimistic brothers of his profession a few months ago when he predicted that his team might not lose a football game this season and today it looked as if he might have known what he was talking about.

The all-civilian Bucks still have four major hurdles to clear before completing the season unbeaten and they might not even get by next Saturday's tilt with the improving Indiana Hoosiers. But what they have done already has qualified them for recognition with army, Notre Dame and Georgia Tech as being four in collegiate grid circles. Widdoes later tempered his remarks, saying he hadn't intended to put it quite so strongly, but his football team has played from the start as if it took him seriously in the first place.

The latest victory over a good Minnesota team put the Buckeyes alone in the Big 10 conference lead because Purdue was toppled by Michigan. After Indiana they must beat Pittsburgh, Illinois and Michigan and it will be a miracle if they escape that array unscathed.

McSpaden to Leave On Golfing Tour

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31 (AP)—Harold (Jug) McSpaden, one of the nation's leading golfers, said he has resigned as pro at the Philadelphia country club so as to become national public relations and field representative for the Palm Beach-Goodall company in New York.

McSpaden said he plans to leave on a western barnstorming tour Nov. 8. He will play in the Canadian Red Cross benefit tourney at Vancouver Nov. 17 with his old rival, Byron Nelson, who also resigned his pro job recently to become vice-president of an umbrella manufacturing company. McSpaden said he also plans to enter the $15,000 war bond open at Portland, Ore., Nov. 23.

Powers Believes He Has Defense For Braves' Tricky T-Formation

"I've got something cooked up," Coach Hank Powers said last night when queried on how he was going to stop the T-formation that the Boise Braves have employed so effectively in reaching the top of the Big Five conference football ladder.

And Hank really means that he has found a defense for the T-formation as employed by the Braves —that is if his Bruins provide the necessary power when the teams meet at Boise on Nov. 11.

Hank declined to elucidate further. The wily Bruin coach scouted the Braves in their game with the Caldwell Cougars at Boise Saturday. The Braves failed to make a heavy impression on the mentor although he admitted they have a strong line —one of the best that Boise ever had—and two fine backs in Mays and Douglas.

Cougars Could Have Won

"The Cougars could have won the contest had they played their regular game instead of electing to gamble in the early minutes," Powers stated. "And this gambling proved costly in intercepted passes which led to Boise touchdowns."

Powers said that the Caldwell coach told him Boise was "down" during the game and that he (Powers) didn't see the Braves at their best.

"He told me Boise was 60 per cent better than they showed in the game," stated Powers.

To Resume Practice

Powers said that the Bruins will resume practice Wednesday night after the harvest vacation ends.

He said that it will take time for the players, all of whom have been working in the harvest fields, to get back into football condition.

Wolfe on Eleven

MOSCOW, Ida., Oct. 31 — Civilian football still exists at the University of Idaho with three teams playing alternate games. Two of the teams are comprised of army men and the third is a university civilian team. Holding down a line position on the first civilian squad is Maurice Wolfe, Sigma Chi from Jerome.

LaMotta Will Fight Kochan

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (UP)—Middleweight activities feature this week's national boxing program, with Friday night's return bout between Jake LaMotta and Georgia Kochan at Detroit commanding most attention. Such 160-pounders as Jose Basora, Bernard Williams, Lee Dellicurti and Joe Carter also see action.

Madison square garden resumes boxing after a lapse of five weeks with three 10-round bouts slated for Friday night. The national schedule includes:

Tuesday—New York (Broadway) —Marvin Bryant vs. Freddie Terry; White Plains, N. Y.—Dom Amoroso vs. Tommy Rotolo; Hartford, Conn. —Norman Silver vs. Charlie Lewis; New Bedford, Mass.—Jerry Zullo vs. Corky Davis; Los Angeles—Fitz Fitzpatrick vs. Watson Jones; Minneapolis—Jackie Davis vs. Pete Bolon.

Wednesday—Binghamton, N. Y.—Johny Green vs. Ben Franklin; Elizabeth, N. J.—Clint Miller vs. Frank Leta; Oakland, Calif.—Charley Burley vs. Holman Williams.

Thursday—Boston—Johny Ryan vs. Henry Chmielewski; Fall River, Mass. — Al Saunders vs. Johnny Brown; New Brunswick, N. J.—Joe Meddick vs. Bob Wallace; Baltimore, Ike Williams vs. Ruby Garcia; Waterbury, Conn.—William Roache vs. Blond Tiger; Nashua, N. H.—Jimmy Mulligan vs. Waddell Washington; Philadelphia—Larry Torpey vs. Ray Morris.

Friday — New York (garden) — Sheik Rangel vs. Danny Kapilow; Detroit—Jake LaMotta vs. Georgia Kochan; Worcester, Mass.—Burlie Landier vs. Bert Lytell; New Orleans —Joe Carter vs. Anthony Jones; Philadelphia — Johnny Hutchinson vs. Dusty Brown; Hollywood, Calif.—Enrique Bolanos vs. Tony Olivera.

Saturday—New York (Ridgewood) —Steve Dudas vs. Johnny White.

FISHERMEN FINED

BURLEY, Oct. 31 — Yugi Sawamura and Roy K. Nakashima on Monday paid fines of $25 and costs of $3 each for fishing without a license.

Western Leaders Contest Proposed

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Settlement of that age-old argument about superiority of western conference and Pacific Coast conference football teams—perennially debated but never settled—now is proposed by a coach who has tutored players on both teams.

Edward (Slip) Madigan, once mentor of the vaunted Gaels of St. Mary's College, and now coaching at the University of Iowa, proposes a post-season game between the champions of the two circuits as a postwar plan, and he is getting a lot of support from other Western conference coaches and faculty athletic representatives.

Madigan made the suggestion at the weekly meeting of the Chicago "wailing wall" Monday, a "post-mortem" luncheon gathering of football fans who hear the praises and excuses—that follow one of the most important midwest inter-collegiate games of last Saturday.

"Such a game would go a long way toward cementing the friendship of the two sections of the country," he said. "It also would do a lot toward settling the argument about football supremacy of the two regions."

The Western conference for years has had a ruling against post-season football game participation, but the edict has prevented participation of several teams—notably Minnesota—in Rose Bowl games against the coast conference titlists. Madigan's plan is not to interfere with the Rose Bowl, but to hold the interconference game earlier.

Baltimore Sees 3 Horse Battle

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — The eighth running of the $25,000 winner-take-all Pimlico special, richest weight-for-age event of the American turf, which features the opening of old hilltop's fall meeting tomorrow, shaped up as a three-horse battle today between Twilight Tear, Devil Diver and Megogo.

Phelan Calls Trojans No. 1 College Eleven in Far West

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Versatile Jimmy Phelan, St. Mary's college football coach, changed his mind today and asserted the University of Southern California has the finest collegiate team in the far west.

Two weeks ago when his team lost to the University of California at Los Angeles, 39-0, Phelan described the Bruins as the best college team *he had seen. His Gaels went down to a 34-7 defeat by U.S.C. last Sat*urday and in reviewing the contest today at the football writers' weekly meeting he said:

"I'll retract the statement I made two weeks ago that U.C.L.A. is the best college team I've seen. Coach Jeff Cravath's U.S.C. team is the best around. The Trojans have unbeatable speed. I think they are as good as in now in the Rose bowl."

NO POINTS SCORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Three of football's leading exponents of two different coaching styles, Clark Shaughnessy of Pittsburgh, Carl Snavely of Cornell and Andy Kerr of Colgate, debated the "T" formation vs. the single wing for two hours today without scoring a point.

At the weekly meeting of the New York Football Writers' Association, Shaughnessy told of the advantages of the "T" and some of the many things that can be done with it if manpower is available; Snavely upheld the older formation and Kerr, who is using both this year, said he had "not been converted." They agreed, however, that the "T" loses effectiveness when the team doesn't have a quarterback who can operate it skillfully.

Louis to Make Exhibition Tour

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, will make a 10-city exhibition and refereeing tour during his 21-day furlough that started Oct. 28, according to an announcement by Max Waxman.

A three-round exhibition with Johnny Demson at Detroit's Olympia Nov. 3 will be the opener of the jaunt that will take him through the east and wind up in the middle west Nov. 17.

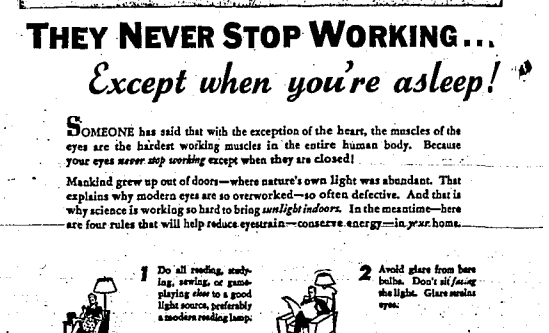
Sprint Champion To Enter Service

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 31 (AP) —Charley Parker, national champion sprinter, will be inducted into military service at Fort Sam Houston reception center Nov. 17, his draft board informed him yesterday.

The former San Antonio high school track star climaxed a brilliant schoolboy career by winning two races at last summer's national AAU meet in New York City. He passed his pre-induction examinations, however, that the "T" loses



THEY NEVER STOP WORKING...

Except when you're asleep!

SOMEONE has said that with the exception of the heart, the muscles of the eyes are the hardest working muscles in the entire human body. Because your eyes never stop working except when they are closed!

Mankind grew up out of doors—where nature's own light was abundant. That explains why modern eyes are so overworked—so often defective. And that is why science is working so hard to bring sunlight indoors. In the meantime—here are four rules that will help reduce eyestrain—conserve energy—in your home.

1 Do all reading, studying, sewing, or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp.

2 Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes.

3 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.

4 Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

Company Founder Dies in California

Death of Frank W. Patrick, Long Beach, Calif., and former resident of Twin Falls, was announced here by friends Tuesday.

Mr. Patrick, who had lived here for more than 25 years, died Oct. 23 at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morrison, with whom he had been living for four months.

A native of Washington, Ill., he came here before 1920 and for a time farmed south of the city. Later he founded the Pacific Fruit and Produce company here. About 12 years ago he retired from active farming because of illness and moved into the city. While here he was a member of the Christian church.

Survivors, other than those mentioned, include his wife, Mrs. Ora Patrick, Long Beach; two other daughters, Mrs. Wilmer Miller, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Neola Kinsey, Brawley, Calif., and four brothers, W. A. Patrick, Long Beach; Alfred H. Patrick, Yoncalla, Ore., and Walter M. and Lloyd I. Patrick, both of Seattle.

Funeral services were held Monday in the Long Beach Christian church under direction of the Rev. David Sayer. Interment was in Sunnyside cemetery, Long Beach.

Leader Training Told to Rotary

Leadership training was the topic followed Tuesday by John Platt, local high school principal, as he addressed members of the Rotary club at regular weekly luncheon meeting.

Platt, who was one originator of a program which has been adopted statewide by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, discussed leadership from the standpoint of a high school official. The program, which he started features the bringing of selected high school seniors to various civic club sessions in order that they can get an idea of how civic leaders think and how they "make things click."

Guest of A. M. Morgan was Dr. R. A. Pearse, Brigham City, Utah, a past district governor who served in 1941-42. John Breckenridge was program chairman for the meeting.

Commander Visits

The Idaho state commander of the D. A. V. will visit in Twin Falls Wednesday and will meet with members of the local post of the American Legion hall that evening at 8 p. m.

The session will be in a separate room because the Democrats are using the main hall for a rally that same evening. Auxiliary members will meet at the home of Mrs. John Balsch, jr. A joint meeting will be held following the two separate meetings.

Thanksgiving

Twin Falls city councilmen have decided in favor of observing Nov. 30, the date proclaimed by Gov. C. C. Bottolfsen, as Thanksgiving day. President Roosevelt had called for Nov. 23, the usual fourth Thursday.

Hunt Gym Must Be Ready Dec. 30

HUNT, Oct. 31—Unless the gymnasium-auditorium at the Minidoka relocation center here is completed by Dec. 30, federal funds will be withdrawn and the incompleted building boarded up, H. L. Stafford, project director, has announced.

Work on the spacious structure is in the final stages at present, but the availability of only minimum crews has retarded progress. More than 8,000 man hours of skilled labor are required to complete the building, it was estimated. For reasons of safety and maximum efficiency, total labor on the building is limited to 70 men.

A recruitment drive is underway to obtain skilled labor. However, it must be done without interference with the continued employment of labor necessary to camp maintenance. Otherwise the construction job has full priority.

Stafford has termed the building "a very important part of the school athletic program" which could be used "continuously . . . as long as the project remains open."

Last week at a joint meeting of the community council and the block commissioners, the two groups went on record as supporting the recruitment program.

Loss of Granary Averted in Fire

BUHL, Oct. 31—Threat of fire to a large granary one and one-half miles south of the Fairview school was averted yesterday after corrals and fences on the Fred Hoasley farm were destroyed by a rampant weed fire.

Believed to have started on a neighboring farm, the fire swept through Hoasley's corrals until the Buhl mutual fire department succeeded in bringing it under control. Monetary loss was not heavy, Fire Chief R. H. Stewart said later.

Weeds being burned by a farmer three-fourths of a mile south of the Burley corner here caused another resident to turn in an alarm. When the fire department responded, the woman explained that she had believed a haystack was on fire.

Nampan Held for Forgery Hearing

BUHL, Oct. 31—Arraigned on a forgery count, Adolph Thorpe, Nampa, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the district court under a $300 bond yesterday by C. E. Rudy, justice of the peace here.

Failing to post the bond, the Nampa man was remanded to the custody of Sheriff Warren W. Lowery. He was arrested Friday night.

A similar charge is awaiting Thorpe in Nampa after his trial here.

Complaint was signed by W. H. Graybeal, owner of the Sport shop here, in connection with a $6.75 check allegedly issued by Thorpe and bearing a fictitious name.

Hunter Fined but Keeps Extra Deer

BURLEY, Oct. 31—H. W. Sherlock, Twin Falls, shot one deer more than the legal limit and was allowed to keep both of them—after he paid a $50 fine and $3 costs here yesterday.

Pleading guilty to the charge before Probate Judge Henry W. Tucker, the Twin Falls man was fined $100, half of which was suspended. After he put up the money, the judge told him he could keep the extra carcass.

HANSEN MAN FINED

Pleading guilty to a disturbance of the peace charge, Glen Cummings, Hansen, was fined $10 and costs Monday by Probate Judge C. A. Bailey.

Maybe it's a good thing wolves can't fly, if all Halloween witches make such attractive broomstick riders as 20th Century-Fox star June Haver.

GIs Visited by Boise Publisher

BOISE, Oct. 31 (UP) Mrs. Margaret C. Ailshie, owner and publisher of the Statesman newspapers, which include the Twin Falls Telegram, visited American soldiers in a receiving hospital in England where she is the guest of the British ministry of information, and decided she was "as near to war as this reporter wants to be," she cabled the Statesman today.

"There is a fine atmosphere of optimism and good spirit through all the wards," cabled Mrs. Ailshie. "The boys thought it was a good joke that I looked in vain for an Idaho patient, but I told them our boys knew too much to get in the way of a sniper."

She added that the Red Cross "is doing a great job in these hospitals." She said the "English people do what we in Boise do for veterans at Gowen field hospitals - they visit patients."

C. of C. to View Army's Program

Films illustrating the rehabilitation program of the United States army will be shown by recruitment personnel at a general meeting of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Friday, President Claude Detweiler announced Tuesday.

The luncheon meeting will be held at noon at the Park hotel.

The army is seeking to enlist women in a medical program to administer to the physical and psychological needs of returning servicemen. Positions range from X-ray technicians to psychiatric assistants, and are open to women between 20 and 50 who pass the requirements.

Grangers Postpone Thursday's Meeting

Postponement of the Mountain Rock Grange meeting, originally slated for Thursday, until Nov. 15, was announced Tuesday.

Election of officers will take place at the meeting two weeks from now. The question of whether or not a permanent change in the meeting night should be made will also be discussed. At present, meetings are held on alternate Wednesdays.

Couple Fined $10 For Disturbance

Plea of guilty to a disturbance of the peace charge was entered in police court by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Holion, Twin Falls, who were fined $10 by Judge J. O. Pumphrey here Monday.

Philip G. Ortega and Otis Kendrick earlier posted bonds of $10 each after being arrested and charged with drunkenness.

The Holion couple was arrested Sunday night after being involved in a dispute in the downtown area.

Maritime Sailor Sign-up Charted

Recruitment of men between the ages of 17 and 50 for service with the merchant marine will continue here for two days starting Wednesday, A. J. Meeks, manager of the U. S. employment service, said.

General sea duty will be available to men less than 35 who have not yet received their induction notices. Men over 35 will be accepted in the stewards department only. Applicants will be interviewed by Walter J. Corbett, enrolling officer.

Still Missing

JEROME, Oct. 31 — No word of Jack Peddy, 14, who has been missing for three weeks, has yet been received here by his parents, they told Sheriff Warren W. Lowery, Twin Falls, yesterday.

When last seen the boy was accompanied by another youth, the sheriff, whose aid was enlisted in the search, was told. They are believed to be driving a light coupe.

The Peddy youth was wearing a cowboy hat, a plaid shirt and a tan jacket when first reported missing. He weighs about 165 pounds and is five feet eight and one-half inches tall.

Rye lower; influenced by corn.
Hogs slow; top $14.
Cattle steady; top $16.15.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) Prime Minister Churchill's forecast of a possible long war today brought bids for aircrafts, steels and other stocks of companies facing reconversion problems but many market leaders were unresponsive.

While the Wall street consensus is that a quick victory would be bullish for industry as a whole, it was felt that if armaments were to be in demand for some time to come, some of these securities might as well be added to holdings as a pure business operation. At the same time, there was no particular buying rush and top marks of virtually all gainers were reduced near the close.

The list edged forward selectively at the opening and advances ran to 2 points or so in the forenoon. Dealings slowed after a few flurries and transfers for the full stretch were around 700,000 shares.

GRAIN FUTURES GENERALLY WEAK

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Grain futures were generally weak today following an early flurry in December rye. The market responded to buying by a broker with cash connections but soon eased back to a dull trade.

There was nothing in the news to stimulate trade in any of the markets.

At the close wheat was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher than yesterday's close, December $1.64. Corn was ⅞c to 1⅛c lower, December $1.09⅝-⅝. Oats were off ⅛c to ⅝c, December 64⅝c. Rye was ⅝c to 1c lower, December $1.10⅝-⅝. Barley was 1c to 1½c lower, December $1.04⅞.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

By Stanley Paley

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

I

The telephone rang while I was in the bathtub reading the Herald Tribune. I heard Mrs. Watkins shuffle along the hallway and pick up the receiver. After a moment she thumped on the bathroom door. "It's for you, Mr. Kalabreck," she said.

I'd been waiting for that bathroom for the past 45 minutes. First Miss Saltzman had used it, then Mr. McNeil, and finally Dr. Ganz. It was always the same routine: Saltzman, McNeil, Ganz, Ruskin and myself, but this morning I'd beaten Ruskin to it. He'd knocked on the door a couple of times and I'd told him I'd be out right away.

"Get that number, Mrs. Watkins," I said. "I'll call back later."

She grunted something and shuffled down the hallway. I turned the pages of the Tribune and kept on looking at the Help Wanted ads. There was a long list, running all the way from Advertising Man to Zoologist (Assistant to) with columns of Salesmen in between. But there was nothing for me.

I was just feeling around in the bottom of the tub for the stop when Ruskin loudly knocked again. He first cleared his throat in that irritable way of his and then said, "I'm sorry to bother you like this, Mr. Kalabreck, but I was wondering if you'd be out pretty soon. I've got an appointment at 10:30."

"Don't be sorry, Ruskin," I answered. "If you've got an appointment you've got an appointment. I'll be out in a jiffy."

This was a simple application of Dale Carnegie's formula. You bend over backwards to agree with people and they think you're a swell guy. Then you keep on doing just as you please.

About 10 minutes later the water began to get lukewarm and I realized I could afford to be magnanimous. I got out of the tub, pulled out the plug and walked over to the wash basin to clean my teeth. In three minutes I was all through.

When Mrs. Watkins came in from the kitchen with my bacon and eggs, she laid a little slip of paper on the table. "That was the gentleman that called. He didn't give his name but left this number. He wants you to call him back as soon as possible."

The number was Dawson 8-6040 and I wracked my brains for a moment, trying to figure out who it might be. The number didn't mean anything to me, so I went upstairs to get my little notebook which was lying on the dresser. The number wasn't in it. Somewhat intrigued, I went over to the pay phone near the entrance door. Then I remembered that I wasn't dressed yet.

"I wonder if you can loan me a nickel, Mrs. Watkins," I said, popping my head into the kitchen.

"I'm afraid I can't," she replied after a moment. "I've only got two quarters, a dime, and some pennies."

I wasn't asking her for an accounting; just for a nickel.

"Thank you, Mrs. Watkins," I said.

I didn't feel like going upstairs again. Besides my bacon and eggs were probably getting cold and I decided the call could wait.

I was back in my room, starting to get dressed, when I remembered the phone call. I took a nickel from the pocket of my coat which was hanging over the back of a chair, and went downstairs again to dial Dawson 8-6040. A girl's voice answered. It sounded familiar, but for the moment I couldn't place it.

"This is Kalabeck," I said. "Leo Kalabeck. I'm returning a call."

The girl started to say something when the phone was snatched away from her and Boggio got on the line.

"You must have broke a leg getting to that phone," he grunted, dispensing with preliminaries. "What the hell was all the delay about?"

The thing that always amazed me about Boggio was his habit of getting straight to the point. I hadn't seen him for the past six months and here he was already bawling me out.

"I was in the bathroom," I explained. "What's on your mind?"

There was plenty. The way he started unburdening himself you'd have thought that I'd put a nickel in a juke box. I listened for a while and then shifted the receiver from one ear to the other.

"Look," I said. "You're forgetting this is a phone conversation. Maybe you'd better give me the rest for later. I'll be right over. What's the address?"

"57 W. 72nd Street. Apartment 307," he said. "And make it snappy."

I went back to my room and picked out a good-looking business suit from the closet. It was a double-breasted blue chevriot for which Pasquali had soaked me plenty. Material like that never wears out. It wasn't quite so stylish any more for the lapels were too wide and it had only two buttons. But it still did something for me.

The chest of drawers yielded a monotonous shirt which was practically new and had been saved for just such an occasion. All my other shirts were either soiled or badly frayed around the cuffs. My greatest problem was a tie. I've never learned how to fasten one without making it look as if I've been trying hang myself. There were about two dozen of them hanging on a piece of twine fastened by two thumbtacks on the inside of my closet door. I inspected them carefully and finally picked out a polka dotted brown silk which had still retained some of its virginity.

After I'd slicked down my hair I put a crisp white handkerchief in my breast pocket, grabbed my hat, and hurried downstairs. There was no reason for keeping Virgil waiting too long in his present state of mind.

War Prisoner 11 Months, Buhl Boy Says Red Cross Food Vita

Was Prisoner

SGT. RALPH ELLSWORTH

Who spent 11 months in a German prison camp, then was exchanged, is now home in Buhl on hospital leave. (Staff engraving)

BUHL, Oct. 31—The first member of the armed forces to return to this section of the country from confinement as a prisoner of war in Germany, Sgt. Ralph Ellsworth, 23, of the army air forces, who spent 11 months in a German prison camp, is on a 30 day hospital leave with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Ellsworth, Buhl, and his brothers and sisters.

"The United States certainly looks good to a fellow who has seen the other side of things," he declared. "Folks here don't appreciate sufficiently what we have in this country. If they could see what some of us fellows have seen, there would be far less discontent and unrest here in the best country in the world. You just have to lose some things to appreciate them."

Sgt. Ellsworth was a radio-gunner on a bomber. His ship was shot down on its first mission over enemy territory. One member of his crew was killed, the rest parachuted safely in the interior of Germany and became prisoners of war. Ralph is the only one of the crew to be returned to his country so far—the rest are still prisoners in a German prison camp.

Head Wound

He came home on the last trip of the Gripsholm, which carried 2,000 wounded American prisoners of war back to their home land. In exchange ship Ralph left behind his left thumb and the first finger from his right hand. He is now under hospital care in Buhl.

"We are absolutely speechless" for publication, he said, seriously, "over the experiences in the prison camp." he said, seriously, "Yes, I have had a very few of us who have been there are very many of them, and their safety and welfare is the main concern of the Red Cross. Food packages are taken to the prisoners in Germany. The packages were allowed some amusements in camp. Games and musical instruments, some few of each, were furnished by the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross, and some athletic events were indulged in by those able to participate."

Taken to Sweden

Ellsworth and his wounded fellow soldiers boarded the Gripsholm at a neutral Swedish port, having been taken from the prison camps in interior Germany. Besides the 219 wounded soldiers, the ship carried 24 Canadian soldiers, 12 Australians, 24 Swedish civilians, 1 Swiss and eight state department officials. They docked in this country in Newport News and Sgt. Ellsworth was taken to an army hospital unit at Springfield, Ill.

Ellsworth entered the service Aug. 6, 1942, in Rogers, Ark. He obtained his training as gunner in Florida and was given his radio training in that stage. At the completion of his training he embarked for England.

He is the holder of the purple heart and the European theater service campaign ribbon with one star. Ralph also has a brother in the service, Cpl. William Ellsworth, who is in the army air forces with the American air forces as a member of the ground crew.

Sergeant Ellsworth returns to the hospital at Springfield at the completion of his present leave.
